Thread: Free Keylogger help on victims computer

stjimmy - February 12, 2014, 8:45 am

I've read TUT's for a good hour. The end always says something like "Now send it to your victim". I am currently on the victims computer and wish to skip this step. How should I go about installing a free keylogger and getting it up and running right now while I have access to the victims computer. It would also be nice if AVG doesn't detect it of course. I'm also broke so I need a free/simple one. Feel free to link me to a TUT to save you some time but as i said, I want to install it directly to the victims computer. I've spent way too much time on this and the victim is bound to wake up any time now.

[I plan on installing dark comet eventually but from what I've read I will need to start that process from my own computer and then download it on the victims computer. The keylogger is just a for now thing since it might take a month before I'm ready to install dark comet on here. As I said time is limited any way and dark comet has a lot of steps even if I'm able to start the process here.]

Just search for a FREE Crypter, and execute your virus file on the Victims PC! =]

Everything I'm reading says free crypters suck. Can't I just manually add an exception to the victims various firewalls?
