

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Groups, Groups, Groups...

LegacyGaming - February 16, 2014, 12:41 pm

I've seen a few groups on here,
Some way to advanced for me, but I was wondering.
What does it take to get into a group?
And what group would apply best to me:

I'm an all out gamer, pretty much, I'll play anything. (I'm good too)
I can do small CSS, HTML and Java coding.
Advanced in GFX/Photoshop (Mainly 2D Renders)
Highly active and (I think, anyway) intelligent.
I'm currently doing my GCSE's (UK Only)
English - A
Math(s) - A*
Science - A
Spanish - C (only wanted to pass if I'm honest)
But I'm not her to brag and whatnot.

What group do you think I would best suit?
-lcey

Emoticon - February 16, 2014, 2:17 pm

As Unrep said, no HF groups give two shits about school grades.
I'd say Complexity would be good for you, to be honest.

Photo. - February 16, 2014, 2:23 pm

(Feb 16, 2014 02:55 PM)Unreputed Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No group here is interested in school grades

you are funny
Why is it every time I see you around you're slagging off someone or being cocky?

Cloudy - February 16, 2014, 2:25 pm

This thread won't help you. Honestly just wait until recruitment is up for a group you would want to join. Then apply and hope for the best.

Obli - February 16, 2014, 2:26 pm

(Feb 16, 2014 03:23 PM)Photo. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why is it every time I see you around you're slagging off someone or being cocky?
The truth may hurt some. It's funny to post one's school grades, hoping to get in a group with this as if groups cared about it.
I don't see how he is being cocky

Skorp - February 16, 2014, 2:27 pm

I don't see why you posted your grades, they mean nothing.

Anal Voyage. - February 16, 2014, 3:13 pm

If you're "advanced", why not apply for fbn?

Supreme??????? - February 16, 2014, 3:15 pm

To get into a group, you have to be well known. You got to put yourself out there and set an example.

Zink - February 16, 2014, 4:08 pm

If you want to get into groups, apply the time they are recruiting.