Thread: [\[TUT\] How to Smudge with good turn out](#) lightsteps - February 16, 2014, 11:45 pm

Hey HF!

Well I finally got L33t so I thought I'd throw up another Photoshop tutorial since it's been a while. 1:38am and still going strong ;).

Now I've seen so many people struggling with smudging I thought I'd show how I do it. I am in no way an expert at this but I thought I'd show you guys the way I learned. So lets get started!

Things Needed:

Photoshop

A Render

Ending Picture (Making things look fancy)

about 15mins

My Pictures you can use:

Please leave a thank you if you use this tutorial. I love giving back to HF but I can't give much if no one looks at these. Also if you use this tutorial leave your sig! If you put your sig here I'll wear it around for a while. Thanks for taking the time to look at my tutorial. Have a good day HF!

Thanks for the response! I'm not very good at smudging but I thought I could still throw this up :)

Nice Tutorial, only bad thing is, when I tried to follow is, that I couldn't find Soft Brush after searching for it for a long time. But that is probably because I am using another photoshop program than you're using in the Tutorial because mine is called Corel Paint Shop Pro Photo X2. (Maybe you know where it is in my photoshop program, or I don't actually think so.. But maybe? Or someone else, hopefully?)

Anyway, Your tutorial is still very good. Well done, nice of you that you're doing this for the community.

yeah thx alot for your tutorial!

I'm thinking about starting to learn working with photoshop.. (my dad has a full Adobe CS 4.0 which i can use..^^)

I just reinstalled windows 7 on my laptop after formatting the HDD and while updates downloading I was bored and looked into some tutorials about PS..

This nice and easy tuts make me really wanna try it myself.. :D
