Thread: [Cinema 4D Tutorial Illuminati Plugin \[Free\]\[Fast Rendering\]\[Nice lighting\]](#)

METALSLUG - February 23, 2014, 8:21 am

I didn't make this plugin, but i use it and its amazing for a nice soft lighting. I used to use a softbox before which is great but took a very large amount of time to render. This plugin does not need to use global illumination either which is brilliant. Plus its free!

Here is the site:

The Illuminati is a lighting setup, that places lights using geometry.

It starts as a spherical shape, that you can latter on change into a different shape of your choice.

Here're some stuff you can do with it:

Change the size of the its shape using the Scale option.

Set the amount of lights using the Complexity slider.

Replace the built-in sphere with the Object field.

Change the light intensity with the Intensity slider.

Use a Gradient interface to give some colour to your scene, or an HDR image, or even both!

This and more, so if you're into knowing more about it, check the tutorial below.

Here is a picture:(i didn't make this, credit to motiongraphics)
