

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Cryptic VPN or nVPN?

Axcents - March 4, 2014, 10:18 pm

Help me choose one. Will need it to have a PPTP option and looking for one that will increase my ping by as little as possible. Thanks.

ItzClydeFrog - March 4, 2014, 10:27 pm

Tbh I have no clue what PPTP means, I assume port to port something, but nVPN is my favorite on the market in terms of reliability. It is almost always online, has many many different ips, keeps no logs and is $6 or $8 depending on whether you care of having a static IP for the month. GL on your decision OP I know nothing of Cryptic VPN though, sorry

Bontoxilysin - March 4, 2014, 10:27 pm

nVPN's a bit more public, and you wont be able to use it on HF and many other sites. But I think it's PPTP.

Cryptic's VPN is more smaller so less lag, but no PPTP. I personally recommend Cryptic's VPN.

elmedoc - March 5, 2014, 3:29 am

All serious VPN provider who care about your privacy don't support anymore pptp, it's only AES 128 Bit. (too weak)

My service VPN is very cheap ($0.75 per month), we use only dedicated servers and we own ddos protection in french location (Cisco Firewall).

If you are looking for vpn with uptime of 99.9%, which can hold DDOS with high level of encryption, i think we are good :)

DaPiranha - March 12, 2014, 3:32 pm

okay so i recommend Cryptic VPN best on hackforums and you mentioned PPTP it fully supports that. You can find the sales thread below good luck i hope u make the right decision.

I personally use this btw and i think its amazing always works with fast speeds, open ports and PPTP

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=3288623&highlight=cryptic+vpn>