Thread: Limitless Logger backdoored?

?G3nyw0w? - March 5, 2014, 1:46 am

Hello Friends,

Me and My Friend Bought Limitless logger and notified Something So i need to be sure before using it completely

Im posting this thread to confirm whether the limitless is Clean or backdoored

Because, My friend set up Limitless with Email It was working for few hours after that it was stopped working (Logs not receiving) Even tried to build new Stub with Same Email but not working...

He thinks that the username and Password has been stored in the database..

He Set up with his Email ID And Someone Accessing his email from the Location Russian.. Gmail Warns him Like Suspicious Login Prevented

Proof :

Note : His PC Is not Infected with any Virus/Malwares After using Limitless he noted this issue

I'm Creating this Thread to confirm Limitless is clean or Backdoored

Let me know your Suggestions Friends

Well Brother, I'm not talking about the logs issue The issue was me and my Friend thinking the Limitless logger was backdoored.. Because After Set up Limitless with an Email address.. The Set up Email has been Accessed by Someone

We both checked on a Fresh PC This is the issue

I need to confirm from Professional Hackers Whether the Limitless is clean or Backdoored

Well it's normal because the logs have to get sent to your e-mail address. The keylogged person silently sends the logs to you so that's why you got the message. Anyways limitless logger isn't being updated anymore so why are you still using it?

Dude, why do people use Gmail?

Please use hotmail to send and receive the logs on the same mail.

it uses your gmail to send the logs and why would you not make a throwaway account?

DpzFAsq4UEK8 - March 5, 2014, 9:43 am

The issue is that the keylogger on victim's machine logs in to the mail account and sends the e-mail, so gmail thinks that it has been hacked. Use hotmail, it hasn't got this type of protection AFAIK. It isn't backdoored.

Graffiti1 - March 5, 2014, 10:55 am

People backtrace keyloggers, this is why.

buttcoinmaster - March 5, 2014, 10:19 pm

Please let me know what you conclude. I used this in the past, but I've had no problems.

This happened to me once. The owner of the keylogger said that it is because the server needs to login from the victim's location in order to send the keylog to your email. Bottom line, it is not backdoored (99% sure).

Nex+ - March 6, 2014, 4:29 am

Yes the victim the keylogger is on, logs into the gmail to send the logs. This is why it said someone else is accessing it
