Thread: Hackforums crew?

Dean Winchester? - March 9, 2014, 1:27 pm

Hey!

Well basically I am not going to make a big thread about this
All I was wondering is who would join the crew if I was to make a SocialClub Hackforums Crew?

- "Dude

Edit:

Here is the crew link, sign up and I'll accept you :)
Hoping we can make this work.

A few users have tried and failed with this before. They make one claiming they will remain active and update the crew periodically, that never happens. They also have stupid restrictions that don't apply to more than 2% of the community.

If you make one, make it an invite only crew, make sure you remain active to control the group, and don't make empty promises of change within the group if you don't plan to act on it.

Other than that, it could be done again. But the only way I see it being worth it, is if it's done correctly.

What kind of changes would that be? And what kind of stupid restrictions?

I could do closed meet-ups, make a lounge about it, etc.

Crew promotions, crew image updates etc. And the stupid restrictions I had referred to would be 'ub3r only', 'specific level' etc.

Closed meet ups would be cool. I'd be happy to join, since it could be one of the only good crews to come from HF.

I might set one up tomorrow, I made it today called Hackforums Official.

Currently on my phone so I won't be able to invite people.

It would be pretty awesome if we got this to work :) And I might need a couple staff for helping me start it up. HMU if you want that position.

Good name, people will know what we are. Compared to ub3r/uber crew.

Shoot me a PM when you are online tomorrow and ready to move with this crew. I'd be happy to be a lieutenant or whatever the second highest member is (I forget it's been a while lol). I can add/remove people from the group once in that status as well. All except for you, the leader has control over EVERYTHING.

SniperBMW - March 9, 2014, 3:30 pm

I don't mind joining the crew. I'm active and beneficial.

As said above, previous recruitments failed because of stupid restrictions such as "uber/elite" only. You'd only be limiting membership by a great amount.

Give promotions to those that deserve it.

Make them work for it by being active in the long run, not short term.

Don't fall for the BS excuse, "I'm elite/uber" because then they'll either abuse powers or just become inactive.

You'd just be a push-off of a leader.

I'm a Lieutenant in a crew with 6 others and somebody is upgrading internally representatives left and right.

I'll promote the people I trust

Also I don't really see why I would do ub3r only, can't there be like 1k people or so in a single crew?

Will not be able to play today, but I might make emblem, motto, crew color (Taking requests in PMs)

Troye - March 10, 2014, 12:07 pm

I do believe that there was a few groups made a long time ago, but it would be nice to see a new one come up.

I'll be updating the Crew and taking requests soon, currently doing some school work.

Also I still need like 1-2 more Commisioners or eventually admins.

Troye - March 10, 2014, 1:13 pm

I'll join it. I just have to leave some old crews I'm in.

I have it as my active crew.

Does anyone think I should make an "official" thread on this?
There's not really many that care about this, right now, it seems.

If you want to go ahead. The community here is scared to share things and meet up.

Pinkie Pie - March 11, 2014, 12:31 pm

I've been playing GTA5 for a long time and have finally bothered getting online with it.
I'll join the Crew no problem.

What level are you? Are you less than 25?

I decided to create this right now.
The thread is a temporary thread and I will update it further in the future.
If you want to add something or completely remake the thread, for that matter, feel free to PM me.
I will be closing this now, anything related to the Hackforums Crew should be inside the Official

Thread.
