

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: marketplace for hackercraft

FeaturedBMX - March 11, 2014, 11:02 pm

If you look there are quite a few sales threads in the hackercraft section.

<https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=252>

To prevent clutter a section in hackercraft or in the marketplace specifically for the server could possibly be a good idea.

bandors - March 11, 2014, 11:04 pm

I am cool with this. It sounds like a good idea.

630 - March 11, 2014, 11:05 pm

I wish people would get them the fuck out of that section, but nobody is getting banned for breaking the rules. If enforced correctly it would come with a swift 3 day ban, I wish that it would happen.

I support a marketplace tab.

FeaturedBMX - March 11, 2014, 11:07 pm

(Mar 11, 2014 11:05 PM)630 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wish people would get them the fuck out of that section, but nobody is getting banned for breaking the rules. If enforced correctly it would come with a swift 3 day ban, I wish that it would happen.

I support a marketplace tab.

It has literally been filled with them. I am pretty sure I have reported people and I still see the same threads.

630 - March 11, 2014, 11:12 pm

(Mar 11, 2014 11:07 PM)FeaturedBmx Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It has literally been filled with them. I am pretty sure I have reported people and I still see the same threads. It's really annoying and seeing nothing done makes me more mad. I had a shop and I posted it in the virtual game items, they should all be moved there. I get that there's more activity in the Hacker Craft section, but still they need to follow the rules.

Something should be done and thanks for bringing it to attention, it will definitely clear some stuff up.

Argyle - March 11, 2014, 11:14 pm

I made a similar thread asking if these types of threads are alright to be in the Hackercraft section.

Responds from Omni:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4070914&pid=38445697#pid38445697>

Quote: I tell staff to ignore them mainly. Likely I'll setup a subforum for an HC market.

Omniscient - March 12, 2014, 10:26 am

Yeah, I think it might be time.

EDIT: Added it.