Thread: Anime group by non-anime fan? Discuss

Sutorimu - March 12, 2014, 1:38 pm

So theres a dude who wants to create a anime group, has 5 posts in AA which can mean one thing, he doesnt care about anime.

I personally feel like we do not need a group and a group will steal lots of activity from AA which wont be good. We are like a group already, only anime fans are here and its not like theres something secret people want to share. For example this is not a marketing section or something like that.

And not even being a fan of anime yet spending ~$5k to create one? Seems like he is in it for the money and im sure many would pay to be in a anime group since the anime fandom is big here in HF.

I would like to discuss this seriously with AA ?

Please delete this. Its not worthy of a new thread. Just please. Its already been discussed. If you have something to say about it go to the AA lounge. JUST PLEASE TAKE IT TO THE AA LOUNGE.

i would agree with this but it would be nice to have one, but im sure if all the old AA members were still here they would 100% disagree with the person.

Oh yeah I forgot to actually answer the question.

I want the group. Ive wanted the group since a little after I joined in 2010.

I dont entirely agree with paying to get in the group and I'll hate if its that way off the start but if after a couple months he wants to do that I wont leave over it.

it would be nice to have a group but i really hope its not like those

Buy-in ones, hopefully free for the anime Community ?

Didnt know that it was discussed.

Closing thread.

Personally, i will never join the group.
