When performing security testing, gathering information on target companies and individuals is essential (including other trades this would be useful to like private investigators) and it often dictates how successful you will be. This tool interfaces many online resources to help gain information available to the public domain. It can check for things such as social networking profiles, telephone number geographical, reverse photo look ups, domain registrar info, archived sites and much more! For now this is free, but please consider making a donation to us.

Enjoy, should be useful to some of you!

Looks good to me. I sort of feel sketchy about searching for people on FaceBook because of the log in, but besides that, seems awesome.
Thank you for the share!

I can understand that, obviously you don't have to use that if you want, but honestly no need to worry it's just linked to a built in browser.

Yeah that geo locators setting might mean you need to enter the international prefix.

No you don't ? because it's called "Fone Finder" ?

P.S

Nice tits.

CartWright64 - September 5, 2014, 1:04 am

Same vb.net as fuckin always.

Damn guys there are also other languages LOL.

Anyway, thanks and congratulations for the effort
