Hey Hackforums!

I've been creating a brand new keylogger for a week now, and I'm searching for some suggestions.

May I ask why would I want to use this over other keyloggers? What makes this one different from others? Not trying to offend you but there are dozens of keyloggers already available.

That's a good question zgooglez, here is my answer:

I think it's one of the most stable keyloggers, and with a very small stub, which makes it perfect for JDB's and downloaders.

You could add ftp logs. Some people prefer it over mail logs.

My suggestion, use a theme bro :)

I would've done that.

I would've done that.

Because a theme makes it HQ, stable and adds functionality hashtag logic.

1. Will this be paid?
2. Will this support extra features? (Messaged you)
3. When can I expect this Baby?
4. Make the theme sexier!
5. Will you look after this project and keep it alive? (FUD etc)
