Thread: Plenty Of Fish Account

Chookie - April 6, 2014, 6:22 pm

I need to hack into a plenty of fish account, My separated husband has registered and is lying through his teeth about a reconciliation.

I do not have access to his computer at all as he now lives over 3 hours away.

I know his username but wondering how I can obtain his password easily enough.

Hope someone can help me out here

The only way would be that you get his account is answer his security questions or answer his security questions for his registered email.

He is using a gmail email account for it. How do I find the security questions for plenty of fish??
Plenty of fish do not have security questions i have just done some research into it

Try talking to him directly, don't sneak around behind his back :)

I have tried talking to him directly but now he is choosing to be distant and not speak to me at all. He is currently hooked on the site. Amiyarout no I don't have facebook and not interested in getting it. I cannot pm anyone as I only joined today it says I need to have 25 posts
