

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Can we please all charge a bullshit fee for paypal to eradicate the bullshit?

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 9:40 am

So, I've started charging a 25% "bullshit fee" to account for all the scamming as well as holding it for 48 hours. This has worked great for me so far.

Don't you guys think paypal would be used a lot less if like 80% of products did this?

It's basically win/win, exchangers get more business, you get more money for dealing with the bullshit and you get more people paying via an alternative currency like BTC/PM/LTC ect.

What do you guys think?

Magicmann - April 13, 2014, 10:58 am

I think the 48-hour holding period is a great idea; but to me the 25% fee sounds like a big scam.

HueyTheGod - April 13, 2014, 10:59 am

Well, when a product is autobuy you can sure as he'll bet I won't be buying the product if I need it instantly, hence autobuy.

?Cloud - April 13, 2014, 11:02 am

How is it a win win?

Quote:you get more people paying via an alternative currency like BTC/PM/LTC ect.

Lol...no. Chances are you will probably get less sales because people don't want to deal with this BS and will look elsewhere.

HueyTheGod - April 13, 2014, 11:05 am

HAHAHAHA I just reread the thread. Ironic fee name. "No bullshit fee". Pretty bullshit too.

Canc?r - April 13, 2014, 11:26 am

I agree with this post, although if you used various payment processors such as 2Checkout I doubt you'd get scammed as much.

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 11:52 am

(Apr 13, 2014 11:02 AM)Yellows Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How is it a win win?

Lol...no. Chances are you will probably get less sales because people don't want to deal with this BS and will look elsewhere. I have found no change in sales. (might be because I actively sell the only product of this type on hf atm)

@ the other kids post: I'm sorry, I can't understand what you're trying to say; dunno where you got the words "no bullshit fee" and "autobuy" from.

?Cloud - April 13, 2014, 11:53 am

(Apr 13, 2014 11:52 AM)Alex™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have found no change in sales. (might be because I actively sell the only product of this type on hf atm)

@ the other kids post: I'm sorry, I can't understand what you're trying to say.
I'm pretty sure other people sell JDB's too...

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 11:54 am

(Apr 13, 2014 11:53 AM)Yellows Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm pretty sure other people sell JDB's too...
Yes, I'm pretty sure other people sell it too. Your point being?

?Cloud - April 13, 2014, 11:57 am

(Apr 13, 2014 11:54 AM)Alex™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, I'm pretty sure other people sell it too. Your point being?

My point being that you sound pretty retarded right now

Quote:might be because I actively sell the only product of this type on hf atm

Syracusia - April 13, 2014, 12:05 pm

If you plan on losing regular every day customers go ahead ?

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 12:07 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 11:57 AM)Yellows Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My point being that you sound pretty retarded right now

I don't think I do. What made you assume I was talking about my JDB?

Who's the one looking pretty retarded now?

Altidore - April 13, 2014, 1:55 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 09:40 AM)Alex™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So, I've started charging a 25% "bullshit fee" to account for all the scamming as well as holding it for 48 hours. This has worked great for me so far.

Don't you guys think paypal would be used a lot less if like 80% of products did this?

It's basically win/win, exchangers get more business, you get more money for dealing with the bullshit and you get more people paying via an alternative currency like BTC/PM/LTC ect.

What do you guys think?

Perfect approach, i like the 2 days holding time and the extra fees, if everyone would be doing it, the internet would be a better place.

That said i didn't have many paypal problems myself in last 2 years, but already had a banned account for lifetime, bogus disputes, chargebacks and you know the rest. So all power to you with those measurements.

Krew - April 13, 2014, 2:02 pm

I don't think working with such a fee would be wise. The holding time however; what made you think that is innovative? Everyone should've done that from the start. That's what I do at least.

And it doesn't matter what you try, eventually you will still get some skid paying with a stolen PayPal and having success at it.

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 2:24 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 02:02 PM)Krew Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't think working with such a fee would be wise. The holding time however; what made you think that is innovative? Everyone should've done that from the start. That's what I do at least.

And it doesn't matter what you try, eventually you will still get some skid paying with a stolen PayPal and having success at it.

Why not? Nothing, I just included what I do. Yeah. The idea is to get the fee to cover the retards that do this.

Magicmann - April 13, 2014, 2:30 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 02:24 PM)Alex™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why not? Nothing, I just included what I do. Yeah. The idea is to get the fee to cover the retards that do this.

Why not? Because legitimate customers shouldn't have to pay for people that just want to steal. It's not the legitimate customers fault that someone else is trying to scam you.

Duh. ???

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 2:58 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 02:30 PM)Magicmann Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why not? Because legitimate customers shouldn't have to pay for people that just want to steal. It's not the legitimate customers fault that someone else is trying to scam you.

Duh. ???

Then they should use a decent currency? It's their choice to use paypal.

?Cloud - April 13, 2014, 3:02 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 02:58 PM)Alex™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Then they should use a decent currency? It's their choice to use paypal.

There's nothing wrong with PayPal, it's the people who use it who decide to screw things up. It has millions of users worldwide and most users do NOT have problems with it. All you see are complaints about PayPal but I can guarantee that the majority of people do not have any issues with it.

That's just like saying guns kill people. It's not the gun, it's the person.

CyberneticTitan - April 13, 2014, 3:04 pm

Just don't accept PayPal on your store.

Partner with an exchange member and advertise PP to whatever on your thread.

You don't have to bullshit with PayPal and your partner might get revenue from exchanging.

However, if you fail to accept PayPal, you do lose some potential sales.

Magicmann - April 13, 2014, 3:07 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 02:58 PM)Alex™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Then they should use a decent currency? It's their choice to use paypal.

The US dollar is a good currency, and normally PayPal is a decent payment processor. The only thing that makes it not good are people thst chargeback on payments, and people that blame PayPal for their problems when they can avoid it's issues by selling products thst they can actually win a chargeback on. I've been chargedbsck plenty of times. I've won almost all of them. The only ones I ever lost were ones that violated PayPal's terms of service.

Alex™ - April 13, 2014, 3:22 pm

(Apr 13, 2014 03:02 PM)Yellows Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There's nothing wrong with PayPal, it's the people who use it who decide to screw things up. It has millions of users worldwide and most users do NOT have problems with it. All you see are complaints about PayPal but I can guarantee that the majority of people do not have any issues with it.

That's just like saying guns kill people. It's not the gun, it's the person.

Yes there is. What would you do if the US minted "magic" money that can be disputed? You buy something and then think "Oh, I'll have that money back actually" and the money disintegrates into dust right from your hands.

I'm aware they have millions of users world wide. I know, but paypal encourage it. (Don't say they don't because if they cared they would have consequences) Most of the users are buyers, not sellers.

The gun helps the person kill people, it makes it easier than lets say, snapping someones neck. Guns are banned in a lot of (most) first world countries for a reason.

Just because you do not have a problem with something doesnt mean other people don't. Please don't be so ignorant. I'm not starving but I know for a fact a lot of people have problems getting food; I don't say "food is not a problem for people" because I always have something to eat?