Tokyo Police Fight Fraud with Vocaloid Song

The Tokyo Metropolitan Police force has decided to put out their very own promotional song for their campaign against fraud. They do this to bring the campaign to the internet and have utilized the very so popular Vocaloid software to have the very popular singer Hatsune Miku to sing their song.

[Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Sga4JUXLPZg>]

Right now the song has no name and in order to decide the Police Department have opened up on their official twitter page for suggestions. Simply tweet to them with the hashtag #????(Crime Control Song) with your suggestions.

Anime Central to host Wake Up, Girls!

If you were thinking of going down to Anime Central, the popular convention in Chicago, Rosemont, IL then I have some news that definitely will make you go. The popular voice actresses for Wake Up, Girls! along with their producer and director will be at the convention.

Wake Up, Girls! for those that don't know is a seven piece group that voice acts for the anime with the same title and along with this also sing. The group features seven members: Airi Eino, Kaya Okuno, Mayu Yoshioka, Minami Tanaka, Miyu Takagi, Nanami Yamashita, and Yoshino Aoyama who were all hand picked from 2000 candidates. The story revolves around the company Green Leaves Entertainment who are on the verge of going bust. The president therefore comes up with a plan to make the company popular again and to bring money back to the company and this is to form an idol group. Director Yutaka Yamamoto has been head of production at studio Ordet and has been apart of works such as: Senyu, Fractale, The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya, and Kannagi: Crazy Shrine Maidens. Producer Hiroaki Takeuchi has worked on both the film and television series for Wake Up, Girls! and has worked as producer on many large projects such as Shonen Jump's Yu-Gi-Oh! and Dragon Ball.

Anime Central is also hosting Serial Experiments Lain character designer Yoshitoshi ABe, musical duo Angela, and Final Fantasy composer Nobuo Uematsu.

Lots of talent is to be found this year at Anime Central and the show will be held on May 16-18th in Rosemont, Illinois.

Storage Company in Japan stores Ex-Lovers items

Ever broken up with a girl/boy and just had lots of his/her things lying around, I mean a toothbrush and old jacket or even a stuffed teddy? Then when you finally meet your next partner you may need to quickly get rid of these things before they come around. No worries, a service in Japan has your back.

Tokyo based storage company Terrada Warehouse is launching a new service called "MinikuLove" which will store all these precious memories from an ex-lover and even put them online for you to enjoy in peace without having to travel back and forth.

So what's the cost? You pay 250 Yen ($2.45) for a cardboard box which can be filled up with up to 30 items and then pay a 250 yen monthly fee for storage. Options are available such as 360 degree photos for said items for an extra charge.

So get back into that dating scene without losing that connection you have to your old lovers! Easy!

In the last week, an argument broke out between several members on an otherwise normal thread. The centre of the argument was around last season and this seasons anime and whether they were "shit" or not. Read more here:Upcoming shows for Spring 2014

Nice issue guys. I like the enthusiasm you're pumping into this right off the bat, though I've always wondered if anyone even reads these aside from maybe the same 5-ish individuals every time.

Anyway, the Terrada Warehouse article gave me a good laugh. Would've liked to see a mention of the .moe domain logo contest and maybe the voice actor who got an assassination order on himself, but the current headlines are good enough I guess.

Dark Neko - April 14, 2014, 8:36 pm

Another good issue, keep up the great work guys ^.^

Man I miss these. Much respect to everyone's effort in making these and I'm always looking forward to the next one.

I was thinking of doing these but I was running out of time. Takes around 2 hours to write all this up. I do put my all into these though and I try not to write like the usual 'formal' writers, bit boring ya know?

Also, the assassination hit was the VA who plays Ryyuji from Toradora, right? Need to read that article, sounded fun.
