Thread: What to watch on spring break...

rfz777 - April 15, 2014, 1:11 pm

I've just recently begun watching Anime on Friday..

Well to be honest, I did watch Naruto, DB/DBZ/DBGT as a kid, and I've read the Naruto and DB mangas.

Here's what I've seen (and liked) so far: \(Click to View\)

- Sword Art Online (Completed all 25 ep, haven't seen the extra yet)
- RWBY (4 episodes through)
- Blue Exorcist (2 episodes through)
- Log Horizon (1 episode through)

Here's my to-watch list (suggested by friends): \(Click to View\)

- Attack on Titan
- .hack
- FMA/FMA Brotherhood
- Fairy Tail
- Aru Majutsu No Index

I'm a little skeptical about \(Click to View\)

- Soul Eater
- Death Note
- One Piece

What do you guys recommend I begin to watch long-term next? I finished Sword Art Online and absolutely loved it, that's why I'm considering .hack and Log Horizon. What do you guys recommend as an absolute watch? I tried to jump into Soul Eater but then I was like eh...

So, what should I watch next guys? I'm on spring break for a week and bored as fuck.

You're literate right? Here is nice thread made by HF members who spent countless hours watching, analyzing and summarizing just about every anime you may ever want (or not want) to watch.

These are my favorites

"Attack on Titan" (You should really listen to your friends)

"High school of the Dead"

and "Blue gender" (I LOVE THIS ONE!)

u forgot to mention about Boku no Pico m8. it's a must watch for new anime fans. Critically acclaimed anime, even won a few Emmy's.

It's based on a true story.

i can vouch for this 100% legitimate story, boku no pico is amazing.

you should also watch the 2 mexican spin offs, boku no paco and boku no taco, they are very in depth and are 10/10 truly epic.

on a serious note, check out code geass and mirai nikki, and seriously, watch attack on titan, you wont regret it.

I can vouch for Death Note, it's the only anime i've watched, and i liked it so much Death Note is good to watch. You should finish Log Horizon as well, the emphasis on a real MMORPG is much better than SAO.
