Thanks mate. It may be a stagnant market, but I'll be keeping my shop open none-the-less. I may not always give top Omnicoin per dollar, but I can assure you that I'm one of the most reliable Omnicoin exchangers in the Currency Exchange board.

And to all those that feel it neccesary to rate me a one of five, thanks for that. I really couldn't care less and all you're doing is being a douche. Much love.

Magicmann - April 22, 2014, 9:31 pm

Because I'm a lot more likely to get my ass exiled for scamming than trader Joe, as I would be giving OMC a bad name.

Not really. HF does not get involved with disputes between members.

Trader Joe would be just as likely to get banned as trader Bob, regardless of Joe's position in the OMC world.

Trader Joe would be just as likely to get banned as trader Bob, regardless of Joe's position in the OMC world. HF not getting involved in deal disputes would be irrelevant. If a member of a coin's team scams then it makes the entire coin look bad and could potentially hurt the coin's worth. It's notable because he does deal with OMC as well.

Boys Don't Cry - June 3, 2014, 7:10 pm

How much BTC can I get for 244 OMC?

SomeWhiteGuy - June 3, 2014, 7:12 pm

(Jun 3, 2014 06:42 PM)Aceman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) HF not getting involved in deal disputes would be irrelevant. If a member of a coin's team scams then it makes the entire coin look bad and could potentially hurt the coin's worth. It's notable because he does deal with OMC as well.

How is that irrelevant? Omniscient would be the only person that would ever ban someone (or at least I would think) when it comes to scamming. The worst thing that would happen if he did scam would be him being removed from the team. And please don't bring up the ~OMC~ incident. There is a difference between someone knowingly stealing and someone who just ups and decides to scam someone.

And how does that work? Just because he is apart of the team, doesn't make it look anymore bad than if I scammed someone. People do stupid shit. I don't understand why people are surprised when a "coin team member" or a "Master Donator" scam, or when someone who has been on the site for 20 fucking years scams. There is absolutely no point in adding "OMC Team Member" to the thread title, other than OP trying to make himself seem more trusted and legitimate. It would be the same thing if a staff member tried using their position to make people think they're trusted. While generally they are, you shouldn't trust them anymore than a normal member. That is what I'm getting at really.

Why are you trying to use your position to make yourself seem more trusted? If you're not doing that (which you'll most likely say you're not, guess I'll just have to take your word) then my apologies; that is what it comes off to me as though.

I'm not trying to be an ass, I'm just legitimately curious as to why it matters if he's a "team member" or not.

If someone is a part of the Omnicoin team, they've got a lot of time vested into it. I put it there because I want people to know that I'm not going to do anything to hurt the reputability of my baby.

Now that is something that is less boastful than "OMC Team Member". ?

As I stated previously it was not my intentions to offend you or troll on your thread, I was just curious and stating my opinon. Hopefully you can respect that as much as I respect yours.

I think I've commented enough. I'll let you get back to your shop, and I'll be sure to let you know if I need an exchange. :)

Have a good night. Sorry if I seemed short with you at all. I didn't mean to get irritated, but with finals and lack of seeing my girlfriend, I've been rather off balance. Add that to having had bad insomnia for the last two months, and you've got a combination for an internal explosion. ?

I really don't. That's not the kind of rate you try to sell an exchanger bitcoin for. We exchange to make profit, and I wouldn't make any off of that transaction.

Due to information from your Trust Scan, I decline to offer my services to you at this time. If at a later point you have more trusted exchanges completed, I may be willing to do deals with you in the future.

I have PMed Pharaohs to let him know this already:

I am currently experiencing 403 errors when I try to access PayPal from any of my devices. I am on hold with PayPal right now to verify the transaction, and if there is something wrong with my account to where I can't access PayPal, I will instruct the PayPal rep to refund his transaction.

Not accepting any exchange request until I get this sorted out.

I sorted out the issue with Pharaohs by refunding his money. It turns out I was RATED, and because of the original funds being transferred from my account, and my refunding Pharaohs when my bank account balance is almost zero, I am about $300 in the hole.

Pharaohs - December 4, 2015, 8:18 pm
