AP0STL3 - April 16, 2014, 11:08 am

Just two question :

1. With this product are you just selling the generator (software) ?
2. Or your generator fetch rdp's out for those who buy the package and in btw the rdp generator will as well fetch same details for same buyers on the package i.e if 20 customers are buying the package same rdp details will definitely go to them all am i right ?

I will probably fix so that only one user can see one remote desktop but its really not needed since the users are not allowed to change any passwords.

Not trying to sales trash but you have to think of in this way.

You will be having multiple people connecting to it and that will cause the servers to shut down due to many reasons mostly usage and it would be easy to reverse engineer your program and just grab everything. Why pay monthly when they can just RE it and grab the list?

it. Not now. And you will need to find your own provider or I can give you some examples.

Cakeb$$$ - April 17, 2014, 3:09 am

Maybe I did not understand correctly but from my knowledge this works through netseal. This would stop a attacker from getting direct access to the db but wouldn't it still be possible to just make a program that does mass requests to the netseal URL and then dumps results in a txt.

I would still say this is the worst way of selling rdp's although i have not purchased this program, but i believe it's a good steal to own a lifetime license; have tried rdp cracking in the past and to get a good amount of rdps you need a good combination of combo list and ip ranges to scan for. (Apr 18, 2014 12:05 PM)Six-Nine Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Let me know if you do this and if you can make hundreds every day.

It is definitely hard to provide few hundreds per day as i don't know anyone who have done it. Main issue here is how much are you paying your provider/s for quality checked rdps rather than just a dump of it? If every list is qc before they are uploaded into the database and every user is given a fixed amount each day, you will definitely be seeing satisfied customer before you run out of funds to pay your provider.

Had a bad experience with him.

After generating 20 times, I started to see the same IP's.

And from the 20 generated RDP's only 2 worked, and they were pretty much useless.

So I took contact with him, he tells me he only has 480 in the system, while he announced days ago that he added a couple thousand.

So I have to believe that a couple of thousand RDP's were checked and changed.

Yeah right.

So I tried to chargeback, didnt work, and gg just lost some good money on a faker.

Negatives inc.

You lost access to the program because of what YOU did. I told you to close it.

I have purchased this on April 16 and i have never seen the 2000 RDP you told you would have added.

I understand that you're busy mate, but how much would we have to wait before seeing this updated?

Looks like the full list of RDP is composed by around 50 of them and until now i feel i wasted my money.

?I had them the first days until someone changed a lot of passwords etc.

I have been trying to find a new provider since the guy I had when I started this project didnt have time anymore.

It is very hard to find someone that can deliver enough and last week I thought I had found a provider but now it seems that he was only wasting my time.

I have been contacting a lot of people but still no success.

I understand how it feels but I'm doing everything I can.

I will solve this somehow. I contacted another guy some days ago but still no answer from him. Hopefully he will be able to provide enough RDP's.

Is it very similar?

Do they have almost the same exact specs as the t1.micro specs?

<http://aws.amazon.com/ec2/instance-types/>The RDP's are not from Amazon and they have up to 16 GB ram.

I wrote it a few times on this thread that there are no new and/or working rdps for me.

Waste of money so far.

He is talking that why he should buy Lifetime (when he tried other packages and didnt work)

By didnt work mean: That u are still with the same RDP's that 1 month ago.

Will this change? Because a lot of customers are waiting to get your "new RDP's and never arrived". I paid for lifetime, don't want to trashsale but.. This never was worth for me. I could have access only to 1 RDP.

Not recommended at this time.

I am now closing this sales thread until I find some good provider for this RDP generator.
