Thread: How to bypass SMS Verification

ViO - April 24, 2014, 8:35 am

Hello Hackforums!

In this tutorial I will show you how to bypass a SMS/phone verification (for creating an account or something else). Maybe i posted this in the wrong section, I am sorry for that!

NOTICE : Most of these numbers maybe won't work with Youtube because they were already used multiple times!

STEP 1 : Just normally create an account.

STEP 2 : When it comes to the SMS verification, visit one of the links above :

Spoiler (Click to View)

<http://pinger.com/tfw/> registration

<http://receive-sms.com/> no registration

<http://receive-sms-online.com/> no registration

STEP 3 : In this example I will use the website <http://www.pinger.com/tfw> .

STEP 4 : Click on "sign up free". Don't worry, this signup does not need your real email adress. Apart from that,its done within a few seconds..

STEP 5 : Fill in some random information...

STEP 6 : So,after you finished that, it will ask you for an zipcode. This zipcode must be from the USA.

Visit http://www.zip-area.com/new_york/new_york/ for zipcodes from new york. You can also take other zipcodes.

STEP 7 : After clicking on "find", you will have to choose the number you want to recieve an sms with.

Just choose one randomly and click on "confirm".

STEP 8 : When it asks you to share your number with facebook, just click "cancel", this will bypass this question.

STEP 9 : Now,it looks like this :

STEP 10 : By clicking the cross, a window will pop up in which you can send other people a SMS.

By clicking the refresh button, the window will be refreshed and new SMS will be shown.
If you forgot your phone number, just click on "options" and it will be in the first line.

If you want a new number, you will have to make a new account. Other websites work similar to this one.

Have fun!

I'm sure this will be useful at some point next time I need to verify something via. SMS and don't want to use my personal number.

Thanks for sharing this with the community, OP. Just realized I'm going to see if this VPS hosting service that requires SMS verification is legitimate. I didn't want to use my personal number before due to the fact that it seems a little sketchy.

Regardless, thanks for sharing.

Follow these instructions if you'd like to SMS with your friends who are in different countries:

The list below contains the countries (outside of the US and Canada) that we are currently able to offer you free texting to.

Send a text from Textfree or Pinger to your friends and test whether it's getting through. Make sure you use the plus symbol and the country code (+#) before your contact's number.

If your test message didn't go through, their carrier or country is not supported. So have your friends on iOS or Android phones download and install our awesome new Pinger app from the iTunes App Store or Google Play.

Pinger is available all over the world and you can text each other free as much as you want when you both have the app. Call free on iOS too! Free calling is coming to Android soon.

We would love to support as many countries as possible, but due to outside considerations, this is a list of who we are able to currently support. This list will be updated as our supported countries are updated.

How should this work with an exe?

And why do you want to know it? By downloading an executable file you take the risk of downloading malware.

it was a program but idk the name anymore. you should always run programs in a virtual machine...

Its better to don't even download any executable file from a source you don't know. Nowadays there are enough methods to bypass a sandboxie or to not allow an executable to run in a virtual machine.

it is bypassing. You don't have to put in your real number -> bypassed.

lol.

The fact that you still had to put in a number and verify it implies you didn't bypass it, all you did was use a number other than your own. You still had to do the task of entering a number, regardless of who's it is, and verify it. It isn't bypassing.

The form asked you for YOUR OWN PHONE NUMBER.

By entering a phone number that is not yours, you bypassed it. Well let's stop this here, there is no sense in discussing this at all.
