Thread: Almost 100,000 reported posts

Omniscient - May 13, 2010, 10:39 pm

94,696 reports

- 20,160 low quality
- 15,856 wrong forum
- 1755 dumps
- 7711 lock request
- 6873 flaming
- 5335 other
- 5671 spamming
- 3556 infected downloads
- 2782 double posting
- 2552 CC or PP fraud
- 1541 phishing
- 1162 Cross Posting

That's a breakdown of the reports since July 2009. It shows how hard staff works and the type of reports we get daily. Just yesterday we had about 600 reported posts. That's a lot of work to do everyday. I see lock requests at over 7000. I'm going to remove that from the selection. Since ub3r/l33t can lock their own threads I don't see a real reason to have this as a report. Obviously we have a lot of problems with LQP and wrong forum posting.

I'm going to raise the min characters to 25 from 20. I'm also going to limit posts per day for regular members. I'll probably make it 10. Yes that's very limited but it will prevent new members from spamming the site just to get a higher post count. I'll not impose a restriction limit on ub3r/l33t at this time.

Stuff is crazy around here. We need to alleviate some workload that staff has to deal with on a daily basis. As you can see from reports we have a huge LQP problem but that's nothing new.

EDIT: Just a note right after this I created and implemented a plugin to restrict regular members to only 10 posts in a 24 hour period inside the Lounge. This rule ONLY APPLIES TO REGULAR MEMBERS AND ONLY IN THE LOUNGE.

Factor8™ - May 13, 2010, 10:41 pm

Good to see that the figures for phishing and Cc fraud are minimal.

Irelandrulz2 - May 13, 2010, 10:42 pm

And to think I have only contributed 700 reported posts of the lot! Maybe you should make the limit of posts per day at 10 until they reach a certain post count like 300-500 perhaps?

leakyfaucet - May 13, 2010, 10:42 pm

I dislike the idea of limiting to 10 posts per day.

No trashtalkers, flamers, scammers, no 100.000 reported post's celebration.

Make the best out of it, that's pretty much what it is ?

AND some hard work from staffs for making it happen (i include mods as a part of the staff crew, as it implies to leadership)

Nima304 - May 13, 2010, 10:55 pm

I highly agree with your idea of limiting posts from normal members, but make it a higher amount, such as 30 or 40. Once the user upgrades or gets to 500 or more posts, I'd suggest removing the limit from them. This will lower the amount of low quality posts drastically, and I'm really looking forward to that happening.

Also, to think that I reported over 1% of the total reported posts since July 2009..

I couldn't imagine having to deal with such a high amount of reports on SF ?

Those suggestions sound great. All 'lock request' really does is give normal members the ability to lock their own threads (by posting 'lock please' and reporting that post for lock request). Obviously if a thread needs to be locked, a mod will make that decision.

Way to make assumptions, dipshit. I speak Swedish and English fluently and I was born and raised in America. Yeah, I'm soo certain you speak four languages fluently. By the way, understanding Croatian/Bosnian just 'cause you're Serbian DOESN'T count as 'speaking' the languages, nor does understanding Catalan because you speak Spanish and so on. I understand Danish and Norwegian, as well as Icelandic and Faroese to an extent because of Swedish, because I don't dare claim I speak four languages. So please think before you speak.

One draw back to the post limits is that some users rely on being helpful and active on the forum to get noticed and upgraded.

If they're good as a white hat helper and can only help 10 people a day, that limits their contribution to the forums.

I say if they're actually a good member (1 rep to every 10 posts or less), then the limit should be increased to about 20-30 a day, as they actually have quality to share with others.

Just my thoughts.

Maybe if we had 20 Sectional Moderator, and i can assure its more cleaner than pure bleach is. That's when the lounge becomes non-shit section.

Anyway Lounge should be basically discussing about general computer things, as this is a HF, not about people's life.

Low quality posts are made everywhere, if you didn't notice.

Case in point:

"I have a rogue antivirus plaguing my computer. What do I do?"

LQP: "Reformat."

I've seen that so many times.

LQP encompasses WritInG LiKe ThIs, SHOUTING LOUDLY, and so on. It doesn't have to just be related to the content of the post (or lack thereof).

There are too many grammatical errors in that to fix, but Omni has already stated, that there are too few members who would be legitimate Staff to accept.

Staff and I discuss new staff mebmers regularly and at this point I would say on 1 out of 5 people we consider gets invited. I don't just invite people into staff. We discuss members and who we think is eligible. If one staff member has a bad feeling about you or a legit reason to not have you on staff you're likely going to be scratched. People do this anyway. Someone made an alt to spam a thread of mine with anti-gay posts. I must have missed this post, thread was getting filled. Sorry for bringing a old post.

Of course I wouldn't want to see 5 new staffs by tomorrow neither. If you feel its too much responsibly and a lot of potential of abuse, I would exactly agree, but there is always work around.

Neither Sectional moderator, or have a certain Permissions for a user. Its might be hard and risky, but in end it can be really helpful. Ive seen some posts about you dont like how mybb handles moderator part. Well Not everything's perfect but when it comes problem like this, i guess find a work around or get the moderator problem your having fixed?

How often do you visit the Lounge, really? It's an awesome place to relax, host contests, seek advice, and more. Yes, there're low quality posters, but every place, society, or environment of any sort will have people who try to ruin it for others. If people didn't give into their instigation, it wouldn't be as bad as it is. People who don't visit the Lounge seem to think it's a pit of angry lions trying to kill each other or something.

It actually is.

The Lounge is a place where most of the members go and relax. NO forum is able to hold its members connected and in place without a chit chat section. And I mean, NO.

It holds the place of the most active section on HF. You realize that if you close it, most of the members that have no interest in hacking will be gone?

You can actually help Omni, iBF and the rest of the staff. Report the posts. Take action. Don't just sit and complain about how bad the Lounge is. The Lounge is actually a great section, full of fun conversation but full of idiots too.

A person does not deserve to be killed because of an illness.

I am not complaining 24.7 I am just discussing as Omniscient has just made a modification to lounge and explaining about LQP's Issues. So i took this as good time to "complain"(but its more of discussing for me)

I am pretty sure Lounge is one of reason HF is popular, it just needs more attention(from staffs) that's all i'm saying.

I think since the Crackdown the lounge has been better. That doesn't mean we still can't improve things or guide members toward better quality. That's always my goal. I really don't want to stifle discussions. But if the discussions are low quality then this place will turn to shit. So a balance must be kept. Part of always striving for better quality has made this site a success imho. It's a very fine balance though because obviously with every attempt to bring up quality there are those that feel we are ending their fun. That's not the goal at all though.

If making it 10 posts per day in Lounge for regular members makes them think about their post quality more then it's a win for all of HF.

As for the extra money this may or may not earn...well staff is going to start being paid soon. It's obvious their work is more work than hobby at this level. I don't even want to guess how many hours each staff members spends on reports per month. So I'd like to think a few adjustments to increase membership would go to them. The current income level for the site is imho a comfortable income for my work. I can't complain. I do complain how hard I work but not how much income I have. I can't yet buy a Ferrari but I can at least pay for family vacations. That's enough for me. So I'm going to start giving staff salary. And this is the first they're hearing about this too. :)

That's a breakdown of the reports since July 2009. It shows how hard staff works and the type of reports we get daily. Just yesterday we had about 600 reported posts. That's a lot of work to do everyday. I see lock requests at over 7000. I'm going to remove that from the selection. Since ub3r/l33t can lock their own threads I don't see a real reason to have this as a report. Obviously we have a lot of problems with LQP and wrong forum posting.

I'm going to raise the min characters to 25 from 20. I'm also going to limit posts per day for regular members. I'll probably make it 10. Yes that's very limited but it will prevent new members from spamming the site just to get a higher post count. I'll not impose a restriction limit on ub3r/l33t at this time.

Stuff is crazy around here. We need to alleviate some workload that staff has to deal with on a daily basis. As you can see from reports we have a huge LQP problem but that's nothing new. I tried to make this point to the [deleted] group, as they think this is a black hat site and that staff could somehow do "more" than they already do to make it "better". Personally I think staff is doing an AMAZING job. They're handling a lot more reports than I thought they were, A LOT more. Just the amount of crap staff has to deal with here, and how they get it all done, it's just awesome. I just can't see how anyone could possibly say it's not "good enough" or it "can get better".

Good job staff and admin. ??

Braco Asshole - May 14, 2010, 2:52 am

Yeah iBruteforce is a REPORT-BEAST. And I think if adding about 1-2 new staff members/sectional moderators in the future, since the number of registered members grow every day they will more effectivly take care of all the REPORTS.

I am not sure which one to choose if someone tries to sell a RuneScape account. I usually put a lock request because it is not allowed and so that the Mods/Admins etc lock it.

Oh well I have to agree with you Omni, There is a lot of lock requests and if that is gone. The Mods/Admins might get to have a little more free time on HF other than doing things that stress them out a lot more than they usually are. I personally very much dislike the 10 posts per day thing, but I agree with everything else.
Nice work staff!

Oh my god ? This number show how many member contribute to Hf to prevent infected download or ect, nice ..
Good luck to deal with them .. :o

Wow man what an ass move limiting all members to 10 posts a day. You could at least make a group of newbie users (people who have had an account for less than 2 months) and limit THEM and not the longtime users.

Here's a solution - get more staff members to handle the issues.

DECLANH1 - May 14, 2010, 3:59 pm

10 posts noooooo must be more i cant live with 10 posts a day some days i post alot

Omniscient - May 14, 2010, 4:26 pm

Are people not understanding that the limit is ONLY FOR THE LOUNGE.

You could make 1000 posts in a day here but only 10 in the lounge and that's only for regular members who are not upgraded.

bumperjumper - May 14, 2010, 4:43 pm

Oh, thank god. I barely post in the lounge anyway.

Oh hmm yeah I feel dumb now, I didn't understand that part. You should bold it then to keep more retards from asking.

Wow. That is an insane amount of LQP. Good work Staff for taking care of all of the reports! Its relaxing to know that we have a dedicated staff for the forums. Maybe with more Staff in the future and less LQP the work load won't be so hard on the current Staff.

Great Job to all of the HF Staff.

Could that be the reason why I seem to have lost like 100+ posts all of a sudden from my post count ??? ?

Yeah that's why man :D

Solidify - May 15, 2010, 10:33 pm

That should really clear out a lot of the useless threads that get answered overnight and never taken down.

Nice job.

Good work staff, glad the community is staying clean.

Thug Life - May 15, 2010, 10:37 pm

Good work staff, Thanks for all the support and time you have put into this forum <3
