Just use KissAnime, great quality and always free. I am not too sure where to find a Funimation account for sale, but you could always make a thread on the Buyer's section (your highest chance of finding a seller/provider).

mhm i agree, Kissanime is not bad at all alot of hd also you can hide the ads which is fine with me.

Kissanime also has downloads for dirt cheap (you have to buy "tokens" and it's 1 token per episode in any of their available formats)

Paying people to give you illegal content rather than paying the creators? That's so messed up.

Not even that, but they're charging for fansubs that aren't theirs.

You can just download directly from them for free fairly easily anyways. I might make a tutorial or something if it will prevent this >.>

The only anime I ever paid for was the 5cm/s blu-ray
It would be nice to have easy downloads from kissanime

I dont think people on HF needs a tutorial on how to view webpage source and then using a search function.

You'd be surprised. There are obviously people still paying for it. AA is usually not the most tech-savy section..

Even my sister would be able to do it and she doesnt spend her time in a forum related to computers.

Well, if you cant figure out something that simple, i dont know what to call that person lol.

But i guess these people always exist ?

Just the thought of paying them money for something they do not own nor have worked hard to get or pays so that you can download it makes me mad >.<

If they now hosted their videos on their site and payed for all the BW i would understand, but nope they use Google for that.

It's the same thing..

At least with P2P, nobody is profiting.

Well still, it would be more okay if they atleast payed for the BW, it wouldve cost alot for them and i would understand why they would charge for it.

They're re-hosting content and charging for it. It's really not difficult to understand.

They don't have to re-host it in the first place and then they won't need money.

Incest - May 5, 2014, 5:36 pm

They're making more than enough money off of advertising.

Pls don't visit streaming sites like kissanime and others, or for manga mangafox / mangareader. Giving money to people for stealing is weird.

They re-host it for profit but if they re-hosted it and was non-profit and that all payments would go to keep the website runnig then i wouldnt have a problem with it since they help alot of people who wants to watch anime and cant torrent it.
