

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [I'm so fucking fucked right now.. \[Fucked my Dads R8 Clubsport\] w/ Picture](#)

FuZioN - May 4, 2014, 5:10 am

So beyond pissed right now and fucked too.

Anyways..

I was washing my Dads R8 Clubsport (Only in Australia).

Scrapped the fuck out of it.. Oh shit, you wanna know something else?

IT WAS ONLY RE-SPRAYED A WEEK AGO.

I'm so fucked, any tips to remove it?

So how's your day going? Lol

/Jigsaw/ - May 4, 2014, 5:11 am

That's shitty dude, hopefully he doesn't get to mad.

My days good, just woke up from a good sleep.

Talu - May 4, 2014, 5:13 am

Sorry to hear it man, hopefully it all goes well for you.

My day is going good, thanks for asking.

AnonymousServices - May 4, 2014, 5:14 am

There's a scratch remover tool at every mechanic shop

FuZioN - May 4, 2014, 5:22 am

Just updated the OP with a Picture.

Looks bad as fuck w/ the light on.

CY?AX - May 4, 2014, 5:24 am

Damn that sucks. Is that the only damage or does the er need to be replaced?

FuZioN - May 4, 2014, 5:27 am

(May 4, 2014 05:24 AM)CY?AX Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Damn that sucks. Is that the only damage or does the er need to be replaced? That's the only place pretty much where is got scratched.

Looks like I'm not telling anyone.

Crypto Broker - May 4, 2014, 5:34 am

Tell you're dad a bs story that you were inside a store buying something. When you came out the car had a scratch. (Say a store with no cameras outside i guess)

Moseby - May 4, 2014, 5:36 am

Damn, can't you like "gnudge" with your finger? Won't something disappear?

If not, just buy a little more paint and fix it? Isn't that possible were you live?

Copic - May 4, 2014, 5:37 am

That sucks. You should just tell your dad what happened in honesty, even if he's the type to get mad.

If he gets pissed off just know yourself that it was an accident and you apologized.

If you stay calm and express that you are truly sorry and it was an accident, and he still doesn't forgive you, then at least you know you did the right thing.

Do you have a job? Can you afford to fix it for him?

SimpleDutchy - May 4, 2014, 5:38 am

That's fucked dude. Try getting some paint ?

Perfectionist - May 4, 2014, 5:40 am

(May 4, 2014 05:38 AM)SimpleDutchy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's fucked dude. Try getting some paint ? I don't think you can just "paint" it. As far as I know, it has to be sprayed and dried for a long time. Not familiar with cars, but this is what I've always thought. And the paint isn't that cheap

Zitc - May 4, 2014, 5:41 am

(May 4, 2014 05:40 AM)Perfectionist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't think you can just "paint" it. As far as I know, it has to be sprayed and dried for a long time. Not familiar with cars, but this is what I've always thought.

And the paint isn't that cheap

Only the same as anything else you paint.

But yeah, you would make a mess of it if you've never sprayed a car before.

Marko - May 4, 2014, 5:46 am

I did this too but my dads car was white. It's a good thing I have a friend who has a garage and he fixed it like new for free. My dad never found out ;).

TheMike - May 4, 2014, 5:50 am

I would suggest you something, but listen up.

Do not tell your dad the truth of what happened, just lie to him.. you have to do this or you'll get in troubles and you won't drive a car once again(depends what dad is he :P).

Tell him someone fucked up the car while you were on a Market to buy something and when you came out you saw the car was crashed. Best of luck OP.

Qmz_ - May 4, 2014, 5:51 am

It's not that bad... Repainting such a small part like that costs maybe ~250$-400$ when you take it to some pro. All you need is the color code and some money..

TheMike - May 4, 2014, 5:53 am

(May 4, 2014 05:51 AM)Qmz_ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's not that bad... Repainting such a small part like that costs maybe ~250$-400$ when you take it to some pro. All you need is the color code and some money..

@OP: This might work aswell, so if you have enough money 200-400$ you shouldn't worry about it.
?

SimpleDutchy - May 4, 2014, 6:01 am

(May 4, 2014 05:40 AM)Perfectionist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't think you can just "paint" it. As far as I know, it has to be sprayed and dried for a long time. Not familiar with cars, but this is what I've always thought.

And the paint isn't that cheapMaybe telling the truth would be the best thing to do then. Good luck dude, wish you the best.

lemmon - May 4, 2014, 6:08 am

The thing with this is, if its on the back bum per, to ever make it "decent" again, they will have to repaint the whole panel to keep the color in coordination.

Hope your dad is understanding OP as this isn't going to be cheap! good luck!

SHADOW REALM - May 4, 2014, 6:11 am

Aww man, you did so bad. There is only 1 thing to do in a situation like this.

Go up to your dad, look him in the eyes

And say someone else did it

Copic - May 4, 2014, 6:12 am

Blame it on the vikings. That's what I do.

Cletus Kasady - May 4, 2014, 6:13 am

Well fucking shit. Let us know how your Dad reacts.

?Saint - May 4, 2014, 6:15 am

Thought it was an Audio R8, truly fucked haha.

Ash Ketchum - May 4, 2014, 6:16 am

you were washing his car his fault for not doing it himself u got this!

Madison Ivy - May 4, 2014, 6:17 am

Grow a pair and tell your dad the honest story about it. Trust me, parents want their kids be honest with them. He might get really mad and yell at you but he'll respect that you told him the truth instead of giving him some bs story that he will mostly likely figure out himself..

Plernatious - May 4, 2014, 6:18 am

(May 4, 2014 05:22 AM)?erser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

Just updated the OP with a Picture.

Looks bad as fuck w/ the light on.

Tell him right now what happened, at least he won't think you tried to hide it from him.

sirchamp - May 4, 2014, 8:09 am

You can get some nailvarnish and color it.

Erwin Schrödinger - May 4, 2014, 8:11 am

This is your solution: [img]http://static.my.groupon-content.net/04/89/1337829168904.jpg[/img].
Sorry, JK.

I would try to explain to him, and offer a partial compensation for the repair. :)

BeckyG ? - May 4, 2014, 8:22 am

I woke up to the feeling of making money in my sleep, fapped, going to get some oj then go on my computer ^_^.

json2255 - May 4, 2014, 8:26 am

Get a nice rotary buffer and polish and do it right. Should be much less apparent to the point nobody can notice far away.

Sparta. - May 4, 2014, 8:32 am

Hey, don't feel bad. I crashed my dads car into a fire hydrant. LOL.

hacc - May 4, 2014, 8:36 am

What were you using to clean the car? Chances are it was softer than the car's metal body and its not even a true scratch so it will be easier to remove.

Cyber - May 4, 2014, 8:38 am

You don't know how to wash a car or what?

iKickCats - May 4, 2014, 8:47 am

That's just a fucking scratch I crashed my dad's brand new highlander literally he got it a week earlier. The entire right side of the door was fucked and I had to pay for the replacement which cost around 2k -.-

?lanet - May 4, 2014, 8:56 am

get some T-CUT on that shit. same thing happend to me scuffs are removed with a little elbow grease

Vitani's Mate - May 4, 2014, 8:57 am

Well that is what happens when you park in Rockingham.
Such a shit place anyways. Why come here?

Pulser - May 4, 2014, 8:58 am

He's your dad bro. It's not like he'll stop loving you. Sincerely apologize and offer to pay him back now or over time.

Duyere - May 4, 2014, 9:34 am

You should just be straight-up with your dad. At least you didn't wreck the fucking thing and die.

Vito Scaletta - May 4, 2014, 9:40 am lél, just tell him straight up that you were washing it and you did not know..

you are over reacting bro..