My go to pool, always efficient, even at high mh/s!

Krew - May 19, 2014, 2:43 am

Still running this with Matt. Sorry about the whole hassle.

Another instance of MPOS? Ugh. At least use NOMP if you're going to use open-source pool software.

Ugh, at least show some ingenuity like clevermining.com (also uses NOMP) and create something that isn't nearly identical to every other mediocre pool for this coin right now.

It's not all about how a pool looks, it's how it performs and it's stable as shit.

Agreed. Are you trying to tell me MPOS and/or NOMP are as best as it gets?

If so, you're wrong on that one.

.Matt - May 20, 2014, 2:01 am

I'm getting really tempted to just make a completely new MPOS theme with nothing near to what it looks like at the moment.

.Matt - May 21, 2014, 8:26 am

Pools running pretty awesomely! A few users are switching to us and helping to spread the hashrate!

Moen - May 21, 2014, 8:45 am

I have moved from pool.omnicoin.cc to mineomni.pw. when i was renting(1000 MH/s rig) and mining on pool.omnicoin.cc i got some downtime when the renting site saying the pool was dead even though it was online and running. It have not been like that on mineomni.pw

.Matt why are you using the nameserver of omni "pool-2.omnicoin.cc"

I'm using that alias due to the pool being hosted by Omni and i manage it - MineOmni.pw is just a brand name to stop confusion between Blues pool and mine :)

If you didn't have a hash rate which was about 1/7 of the pool's power why would you expect that sort of output as well? I know it may suck if you can't afford it but it's based on how much work the individuals put in to solving the block.

I was just pointing it out. Besides when people rent rigs on the pool I have the second highest hashrate there, behind The Moen because he seems to always have the highest. Although it is hard to compete with people throwing around Ghash rigs.

Also what's up with the website downtime? Pool still worked but Cloudflare kept telling me the site was offline.

Cloudflare has been experiencing some crazy bad uptime problems recently. Your hashrate is safe along with your coins during these blips of downtimes don't worry :) Even though you can't see the site it is still recording your mining effort!

Yes, that's probably the switch from SHA hashing to bcrypt I requested some time ago on the mpos github page including pepper (Dynamic, stored salt on top of static salt in the PHP file).

I had the same issue, I'm not sure what happened either, but it caused ~5 minutes of downtime with my pool as well.

Let's make a guess and say OVH probably rebooted the node or something like that.

I really want to get involved and I have a spare computer which is relatively powerful, but I don't have a clue where to start :)

To jump a network hashrate from 80 MH/s to 580 MH/s is not only retarded, but painfully annoying to other users. A great way to lose money though, feel bad for the guy who did it.

the network hash rate won't go that high, lol. People throw over a gh/s at omnicoin every day. It spikes the network hash rate, but not anywhere close to that much. It probably won't touch 200

And its relatively profitable. Because you can rent power from nice hash and be in and out within a half hour, before the difficulty rises at all.

Its not good for omnicoin as a whole, but for those who choose to do it they can make a decent profit.

Pool is still running awesome! Glad some more people are coming to the pool!

.Matt - July 23, 2014, 4:40 am

Haven't ed the thread in over a month. whoops.

Krew - July 25, 2014, 11:52 am

This nigga mining pool is still online and rocking. Matt is a bit ghey though.

Obli - July 25, 2014, 11:55 am

Always mining on MineOmni, never had any real problem with this pool. Awesome pool, Matt and Krew!

.Matt - August 6, 2014, 7:28 am

Pool is pretty empty nowadays. Spread the load guys.

Awesome. Hopefully the hashrate may start to be shared across the network.

.Matt - August 16, 2014, 3:05 am

Just saw our section in the news :) Thanks Dr. Blue!

Just want to restate to everyone that MineOmni is not an online wallet. I don't suggest keeping coins in the pool for any reason. There are no security problems but it's still not a good idea.

MineOmni is going to be going through some changes to bring a different pool than MPOS as i think i speak for everyone in saying that we're bored of it. Can't make any promises but hopefully i can get my idea to work.

Good luck with your idea .Matt we need to spread the hash rate

Vibe - September 23, 2014, 6:28 pm

Testing this site out, Seems like a nice pool, may switch from current one if I like it, thanks.

FractumSeraph - October 9, 2014, 9:55 am

Just joined. This is my first time mining o.o

.Matt - October 13, 2014, 3:48 am

Looks like Blues pool is down and my pool is at 3 Mh/s - There goes the difficulty.

SIM-2090815 - October 13, 2014, 7:15 am

Maybe the hash rate will go up on yours now Matt ;)

.Matt - October 18, 2014, 4:24 am

Something appears up with the OVH node we are on. Mining is ok but site is very slow.

.Matt - January 1, 2015, 6:16 pm

MineOmni is still online contrary to the news post.

Midraks - January 3, 2015, 10:07 am

Will be using this soon, is here any estimator calculator for the estimate earnings?

Abraham Lincoln - January 3, 2015, 6:38 pm

Check out <https://omnicha.in/tools>

There is a calculator and some other tools that are really useful for mining.

Krew - January 21, 2015, 7:55 am

Is it just me or are both pool-1 and pool-2 (MineOmni) down?

My pool will be back in a minute, but you're right.

For some reason the server keeps restarting, I probably need to get everything to start automatically without issues. This would be much easier if NOMP was LSB compliant.

Pool-2 is currently being hit by that OVH method which is pretty annoying.

There is an OVH method? Oh well. My server just reboots now and then.

.Matt - February 18, 2015, 4:44 am

Pool is back after the rollback. All seems well.
