

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: CS6 Automatically Duplicating Layers When Free-Transforming

Effexion - May 20, 2014, 8:28 am

Every time I want to free-transform a layer my CS6 takes it upon it's self to duplicate the layer selected. I have no idea why this is happening, and it's annoying.

Anyone know what I've accidentally pressed?

Minimalistic - May 20, 2014, 8:36 am

You are most likely holding the ALT key and dragging which in-turn would duplicate the selected layer.

Off-Topic - #Bubbles4President

FormerlyS - May 20, 2014, 8:37 am

Maybe your alt key is stuck. Good luck!

EDIT: I see the guy above me also posted it. XD

Effexion - May 20, 2014, 9:07 am

No, my alt key is fine. This is so weird. Thanks anyhoo, guys.

Originality - May 20, 2014, 9:28 am

I believe you can edit your quick keys in Photoshop. so you could check to see if they switched.

BoX. - May 20, 2014, 1:48 pm

Hmm, maybe you can try resetting your Photoshop settings.

Chuck. - May 20, 2014, 2:12 pm

I wish I could help you, sounds like a really nasty time consuming problem. I have a very old version of Photoshop so I dont think I can help very much. Good luck I hope you resolve it quickly :)

goldenarms_ - May 20, 2014, 3:59 pm

close photoshop and re open it. problem solved.

Effexion - May 20, 2014, 4:03 pm

(May 20, 2014 08:36 AM)Minimalistic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You are most likely holding the ALT key and dragging which in-turn would duplicate the selected layer.

Off-Topic - #Bubbles4President

No, the ALT key is no where near my hand. And haha, I couldn't agree more.

(May 20, 2014 01:48 PM)BoX. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hmm, maybe you can try resetting your Photoshop settings.

I will try this tomorrow.

(May 20, 2014 02:12 PM)Killbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wish I could help you, sounds like a really nasty time consuming problem. I have a very old version of Photoshop so I dont think I can help very much. Good luck I hope you resolve it quickly :)

Yeah, it's really time consuming. Becoming a real pain.

(May 20, 2014 03:59 PM)Self Made Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) close photoshop and re open it. problem solved.
No it isn't.