Thread: Are survey sites good for hacking FB?

English20 - May 25, 2014, 5:56 am

Hi. I have somebody that I really need to hack, its a 7 month problem for me now. If you read my other threads you know whats up so Im not even going to waste time on that.

In the first month when I tried hacking him myself I was looking for online programs that do it for free. It seemed like they worked, but before giving me the password they always made me complete a short survey, then asked for my cellphone number. I read the small letter part on the bottom of the page and they wouldve sent me 5 messages a week, each costing like $3-4. Which is alot. So I never went through with it. But there was also a part where it said you can cancel the service by sending a specific word to their cellphone number in an sms.

So whats your opinion about this guys? Do survey sites really work?

This is the first one I found <http://www.facebookhackonline.com/> as expected it was asking me to complete a survey, then at the bottom it said I will get 3 messages every week, costing $4 each. I can stop the service by sending the word stop to 16060. <-- this is just in my country. Im sure depending on where you are the offers and prices will be different.

Would that work?

First of all stop using programs right now, 99.9% of all those "facebook hacking" programs are backdoors or scams. There is no magical program that can get a password for you. I would recommend you RAT/Keylog him or Social Engineer his information. If there is anything else please don't hesitate to PM me.

Hi. I havent used those programs, I was going to though, thats why Im here asking for advice. I tried everything in my power, hiring people, trying to guess his password, and all I did was lose $50 when I got scammed.

If you read my previous posts which are called "Hacking request" you know most of the details, except for the personal info about the target which I only send to people who say they can do it.

I also explained that since I lost the money I have nothing to offer for this, and this sites rules also say cash cant be involved. So if youre up for this for free, please contact me on jackthewinn3r@hotmail.com because I cant send PMs on HF thanks to my low reputation.

Well as No Effort said, it's hard to find a Legit program the brute forces the Password. If you've been scammed, why not do it yourself?

Find a way to Social Engineer for it or Keylog/RAT him.
