Secunia PSI is a tool that can be used to monitor your installed applications for new updates. When started, Secunia PSI will scan your computer for applications and install any updates that are available for them. This allows your computer to remain secure from possible vulnerabilities in your installed programs.

The page no longer exists. From what you are explaining it as, it is the same idea of a program that goes out to find updates for drivers, which usually suck. I would deal with caution if anyone were to download this program.

Secunia PSI is actually a legit program that is praised by many technical support and White Hat Hackers ?

Here's the working link :

It also doesn't handle drivers.
