Thread: How to access a phone's text messages and calls without physical access to it.

I am trying to view someone's text messages on their phone, however I don't have physical access to the phone. Is there a way that I could gain access to it's text messages remotely? The target phone is an Apple iPhone 5 and I'm not sure what carrier it uses.

Sorry but in order to do such a thing you would have to get the phone and install a program on it that logs all of that information and sends it to your computer usually via email.

There's a way to do it on Android phones, and I think the method uses something called AndroRAT. I doubt that there is absolutely no possible way to gain access to someone's iPhone 5's text messages without having physical access to the phone.
