So I want to make a generator for something like twitch accounts or other things, but i have no idea where to start. any ideas? I'd also be interested if someone could teach me how to make a twitch total channel view bot

Lets say it's a legit iTunes card generator. Which there is none to my knowledge but if there was one. You would have to find the algorithm that Apple uses to make the cards. What you're asking for is a bot. People make those from mouse clicks.

Yeah fucking retards do it like that.

The right and better way to do it is by using requests. You can google up tutorials about the subject. I can recommend OP a few good modules for web-"botting", one is requests and the other being mechanize. They should get you going.
