I believe it means "god is great".

Wait question: So the plugin installs itself automatically without having to SE or any of that? Then the next time they exit their browser or whatever, your file gets installed?

You would have to them install it but you can easily make it look like a legitimate fire fox website. Once they install said plugin and restart browser they would be infected with your rat or file

As of May of 2014

Chrome 59.2 % Firefox 24.9 % Internet Explorer 8.9 % Safari 3.8 % Opera 1.8 %, Fire fox is the second most used browser and you will get a fair amount of executions.

Also I accept Paypal, Bitcoin, litecoin, and omnicoin. Will update thread later

Cortex will soon post the execution rate of this drive by. Private message me or post it on the thread, so I know the true execution rate to tell users

Sorry but it's not silent. It involves them to install a plugin but it's very easy to make people to install it and restart their browser. You can make a web page saying you have to install it in order to view a video. It's really good to use if you know how t setup a good page

I was told it would be around the mid 500 to low 250, using a webpage that looked like a porn video requiring you to install it a plugin to watch it

How long will this remain FUD?

Btw, are you planning in getting a chrome one?

I know you're the new owner of trickydb, do you sell doc,pdf, and the old stuff? Or just Firefox?

Me and another user are going to buy tricky db soon. We will make a thread soon once we confirm the deal. The coder will update every drive by including the pdf/doc.

SpaceKase - August 1, 2014, 1:28 am

So are you selling a builder & bin of a new 0day?

I don't know what this is exactly except that you claim to be able to remote code execute on browsers using "all versions" of firefox.

It's a plugin installation that leads to the infection
