Thread: [\[TUT\] Annoying Facebook trick but useful](#)

neil5050 - June 9, 2014, 5:50 pm

I don't think anyone posted this yet. TUT by NEIL5050

1. Go to <https://www.facebook.com/bookmarks/pages>
2. Create any page name (the crazier the name the funnier it gets) -> you can also create the facebook page name as someone else's name
3. After you do that
Upload a photo on your page
4. Tag a friend in the photo or multiple photos (now the way I did it was I posted the pic first -> then clicked on the picture and opened it up and then tagged friends in the pic)
5. Now go to the your friend's profile you just tagged the photo in.
6. It will say that page tagged them in a photo

The question is why am I posting this -> its because that user cannot tell who tagged him in that image. You can easily flood the user's news feed and he can't block the page that did it (max a user can do is set up the review tags option in facebook but most users do not have this activated by default). All he can do is report the page and facebook rarely does anything with reporting pages. As of now, it won't even tell the user that you tagged him in this picture. It will only say the page tagged him.

Please note this is for educational purposes if you have any questions feel free to ask.

In facebook -> you can block users (actual accounts) -> you can't block pages (that's one use of this trick)

Ways - June 9, 2014, 5:51 pm

wow that is mean and annoying, if someone did that i would bug out lol

Baws. - June 9, 2014, 5:56 pm

Nice tut, too lazy to try it out tho xD

Also I thought facebook auto blocks the page or person from the person who is getting spammed (it gets detected)

Nope it doesn't the max a user can do to block this is set up review tags option in facebook but a lot of users do not have that feature set up. Yeah some pages can get removed, but it takes several reports. Don't forget a user can only report a page once not multiple times. On top of that when doing the page trick, you get to stay anonymous.

Plus we are talking about facebook here -> they usually don't care about pages unless it receives a stupid amount of reports.

motrox - June 9, 2014, 6:17 pm

EDIT: works sorry

Is there a way that they can know i made the page or if im associated with it?

neil5050 - June 9, 2014, 6:21 pm

(Jun 9, 2014 06:17 PM)motrox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) When I try to tag I can only tag celebs products etc. Not people...

Are you tagging when creating the picture post or after you made the picture post.

How I did it.

1. I post the picture.
2. Clicked on the picture
3. selected a friend,
4. The pic showed up on my friends profile (but he doesn't know the fact that i did the tagging only the page)

motrox - June 9, 2014, 6:41 pm

nvm works :)

Neil you seriously find the best facebook exploits haha.

Keep it up bro

I don't consider this an exploit though -> This is just facebook being retarded by showing the page tagged you not the user who actually did it. KEEPING you super anonymous.

I think by default being listed as the page admin is hidden unless you decide to show it.

For example here is a page I created

<https://www.facebook.com/Okletsdothiscauseneiliscool> -> it shouldn't link to my facebook page at all.

RelationShit - June 9, 2014, 9:14 pm

I would be pretty paranoid about this.
If you're doing this big time, don't go talking that it's you and shit.
Hold it for yourself.

I've seen people finding out who it was, because they couldn't hold it for themselves. People talk, you know. So.. Yeah. He got beaten up by the most muscled guy around here. I live in a small area.

Anyway, thanks for sharing OP.
I hope to see more from you, I always like your fb tricks.

Fuego - June 9, 2014, 9:17 pm

Nice trick you found OP!

At first I thought people could just see who was in the group, but it seems that you can't do that on FB.

neil5050 - June 9, 2014, 9:34 pm

Its a working trick currently and I usually like to post unique tricks.

BottomNotch - June 9, 2014, 11:32 pm

This is evil... Good job:) GL getting l33t

(Jun 10, 2014 12:15 PM)rraiz0 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i can only tag other pages not friends,why ?

You have to do it in the following order

1. First upload the picture
2. open the pic
3. Hit tag people and select your friend names

Dedication007 - June 10, 2014, 3:37 pm

yes thanks for the great share op, very helpful

Yeah I am always releasing something cool here and there. But yeah its always good to keep your mouth shut if you are doing anything like this.

Roytoy - June 24, 2014, 6:15 am

Just wondering but what is the use of this?

(Jun 24, 2014 06:15 AM)Roytoy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just wondering but what is the use of this?

Post on peoples walls without knowing who did it. At the same time -> they can't block it either.

Roytoy - June 24, 2014, 6:23 am

But they can remove it from their page, and/or remove the tag.

Yeah so you do it again. They cannot block the page from constantly tagging you. Max they can do to a page is report it once (and even then fb rarely does anything)

Hejted One - June 24, 2014, 11:33 am

Works fine. Thanks for sharing mate:)

?pth?n - June 25, 2014, 2:33 am

I can only tag sites, not friends - not working for me ;)

Was trying something out..

Magicshit - June 25, 2014, 4:43 am

Hey, I cant seem to tag my friend I type his name in and nothing comes up.. Any help?

Addictyo - June 26, 2014, 4:59 am

Does this still work or it is patched?

Was trying something out..

Do it in this order aphen

1. Upload the picture on the fb page
2. open the picture
3. Click tag friends
4. Tag a friend

ra1ndropOP - September 12, 2014, 3:58 am well u have to tag friend from yours fb account, because from page u can just tag other pages

Blue Spy - September 14, 2014, 2:43 am checking this out later keep up the good work :)

Edit: Just tried works perfectly I hope it doesn't link back to my personal acc...?

thanks for testing, and nah I don't think it should (always test on a dummy account to see if its patched ever before testing it on your friends). it should only link to the facebook page you created.
