It's pretty hard to find a great working spreader, without investing money into it. Besides that, why buy it? It's better to spread it yourself, since you never know what the spreader is capable of doing, behind your back.

Plus it's free, and easy to do it by yourself.

It's really not that hard.

The easy method:

I would suggest, uploading to movie torrent sites, if you want to get them fast. Maybe make a .rar file where you have to open a program (The rat) to unlock the folder where the actual movie is in. They will then open the RAT(The RAR unlocker file) and see an error like missing generate.dll file.

The more advanced method:

Lets say you wanna spread this RAT to a specific group of people, then use the social media/forums. Lets say i want to catch origin accounts. So i would bind the RAT to a Battlefield 4 hack, then make a video on youtube about it (remember to mention they have to turn off AV, just say it's a false-positive) and you should get lots of slaves. The best part about this is they will give you credit on this video. If this happens, you will get likes on your video(= better reputation), and we all know when choosing a video, we want the one with the most likes, because they are more "secure/trusted" than others.

Both of these are great methods, in my opinion! You decide if you want to use them.

If you feel that telling them it's a false-positive is a bit ridiculous, then get a crypter which will make it UD/FUD.

YouTube spreading is perhaps my preferred way of going about spreading my RAT.

It's simple and as long as you have a legit looking video then you can expect loads of installs! However, the majority of these installs are likely to be young kids as they are mainly the 'stupid' individuals that actually download things from YouTube which may be sketchy as they are quite clueless! :P

So if you are targeting people with bank account details and stuff then you should probably ignore my advice unless you have a niche innovation in which may appeal to the elder generation of people will be interested in downloading your file without hesitation of it seeming 'dodgy'!

Nevertheless, good luck with your spreading.

Kind Regards,

You can always attempt to spread through eWhoring.
