

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: looking for tutor/mentor to teach me coding and basic hacking teach a man to fish

blunsthworth93 - June 26, 2014, 1:03 am

hello im hopping maybe somebody could help me out im interested in learning basic hacking skills and coding an other things that i would need to know to start learning how hacking ive been trying to teach my self for a while now but i never seem to get any where after endless hours of searching on the internet it always seems like i only get half or less of the information i need i dont really know where to start i know googling how to hack an blah blah ect.. is never really going to give you reliable information i see people all the time posting talking about i need somebody to hack this or hack that but thats not learning thats having somebody do the work for you i want to learn how to do the work my self but i want somebody who knows what they are doing to walk me through the basics and tell me where i need to start and what the basics i need to learn are ive tried to learn on my on but i always only seem to get scattered answers ill read a forum talking about how to do something and they always make it seem as simple as just that but dont go through all the underlying knowledge of how to do the task so im asking if there is anyone who is willing to give me some one on one teaching i would love to learn more about how programing computing and hacking works i want to learn to hack through hacking and hack for fun an no not some shit like hacking facebook thats lame i always see some one trying to get people to hack Facebook for them thats not what im looking to do im a fast learner can think outside the box an solve problems i just need one on one learning and not a bullshit google answer please reply to the post if anybody would be intersted in a good challenge and helping somebody learn ?

rahoor - June 26, 2014, 1:12 am i can help you bro but at this moment i need some money so if u r interested i will teach yoi

blunsthworth93 - June 26, 2014, 2:05 am

that sounds fair could we email i cant send pms bc im below 25 post