You're pretty much a script kiddie when you use someones ones software to call you "1337h@x0r" or just talk shit and do nothing. Shit like that you know. Most of the skiddies also dont have any programming skills etc.

You should read through that as well ^^.

Script Kiddie defines as people that use tools made by others with little understanding of what's going on behind the scenes. Newbs are the people that have no skill at all.

Thanks man ^^ Appreciate it. And yea, you're right about some skids. But we all start somewhere, and what's inbetween that? Neophytes? Some are lazy, others are eager to learn ^^

I try to look at the source of the programs and try to create a new exploit or combine the found exploit into a hybrid exploit. I know several programming languages like: c++, c#, java, python, little bit of html5 and javascript do I still count as a skiddie?

Siemka Kubus ?

The Skid is just that (Just skip Elite I added it for comparison):

Elite Hacker - A grade rank meant to describe the the most skilled/ reputed hackers. They knew/ discover the hacking methods that are still unknown and that are not been fixed.

Script Kiddie - A lower rank than the above one that designates someone that uses tools made by others to do some stuff and they don't even know a shit about the real hacking.

Info above is from this Thread.

I'm a script kiddie.

I can piece java things together and make them work, but I'm really bad at writing applets from scratch.
