Thread: Legitimate Ways To Make Money

SneezePirate - June 26, 2014, 4:25 pm

Hey guys,

I'm currently hunting for a job and have been pretty unsuccessful as it seems a lot of places aren't willing to hire and the application process for most companies is just grueling, complicated and inconclusive. I'm writing in because i'm interested in some legitimate ways to make money online as I am trying to save up for a new laptop and it's pretty much impossible when so many places aren't returning my calls/ job applications. Any info will be appreciated. Thanks!

Nobody will give you free methods that make money successfully. My best chip to toss to you is to first have a sizeable sum of $100. What you do with that $100 is going to try things out that seem to work well on paper and test if it works well in real life too. Think of the $100 as a tuition fee to learn more about making money online. Who knows, you might come up with a way that works so exclusively that it puts people with graduate degrees to shame.

Don't ever be afraid of a loss, although be reasonable about it, if you end up making nothing with your $100, then consider it as an "expensive" lesson lol.

Check in PPD/CPA section there is plenty of info or you can build a site around some niche and monetize it with Adsense. My friend started with 0 on his bank account and now he is making thousands every month after only 12 months. You will have to do research on your own though. Try different SEO forums and expend your knowledge. Starting is always hard, so don't give up easily.

I'll tell you a quick secret. To be successful in PPD/CPA is to find reputable websites that will offer cashouts. It might seem hard at first, but they require a certain minimum of cash-outs say about $100. If you stick to one website, you will only get $100, even if you're struggling for that month. If you are doing CPA/PPD for multiple websites, even if you cash out $100, your earnings will multiple for pretty much doing the same work for a different company/website.

If you're a newbie though, see how far it gets you by doing one website.

To be honest I would still consider myself a newbie, but that's already some golden advice and I seriously appreciate it. Thanks man
