(Jul 21, 2014 04:49 PM)odnorazovaya Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) OK, this is for everybody,

I got a chance to TEST out a new "extremely stable "BETA/RC of an update for Droid Jack.

1.Stability is great already(current version), but now, it went to a different level. I am not sure if i am authorized to disclose all the new "stuff" so i will leave it for developer himself, but still, can't leave without mentioning that it is stable on "connection" of your choice. :) And when i say stable, i mean it. Especially for someone like me, who has been following Android Ratting ever since Androrat came out. All that half-ass coding, constant crashes and instability, headache with compiling, binding e.t.c you know what i mean.

2. I Can't really think of anything you can add more to DroidJack functions wise. It does pretty much anything you might wanna do with "your" RATted device . And if you can come up with something "crazy" that can be implemented coding wise, i am sure that developer is always open to new ideas/suggestions. It was tested on latest 4.4.4 and it worked flawlessly. And it will work on anything below that. It is BETA as of right now, however it is from developers point of view. if you ask me, it is extremely stable. This is a best product i spent my buck on so far. Worth Every penny.

I wanna thank developer for his hard work, and after getting a "sneak peek" all i can say is that i can't wait to receive my update :)

Sometimes i have a question, and i'll ask any time during the day and his response is fast , i tell you that this guy is a workaholic and great coder

Unique product with unique features Soo many features and he is always putting more. Now that is an investment!!

I am a customer like you and i am happy to inform you that the stability and improvements on this thing are priceless

I have used the Famous Dendroid and sincerely this beats it up to a pulp!!

I have antivirus on phone and it wasn't detected at all and the binder works great.

This is not some shitty version of AndroRat and does not cost anywhere near as much as other Android RATs with not even half of the features! All of the features are working flawlessly on my S5 running the latest firmware. There were no security popups warning me about installing and I scanned my entire phone with 4 of the most used virus scanners and it came up perfectly clean (Proving phone virus scanners are worthless).

Huge vouch for this, I know it's going to come in handy!

The fact that this tool you see here has every function listed actually working without crashing the android device or losing the connection speaks for itself. Sanju has put alot of work into this project and its worth every penny.

Does this require root access to the phone for all of the features to work like Androrat? If not, I'm definitely interested.

Appliance Warehouse - June 27, 2014, 11:00 pm

This looks very interesting! However, does it require root access, does it only work on rooted devices? How do you infect these androids? Is there an exploit where u can send them a certain kind of msg and they automatically are infected? Or do you need to physically have access to the device?

Also, its $210 for the source code right? Do you offer membership licences?

alphabres - June 27, 2014, 11:10 pm

Is there a way to Upload the application(APK) to market ?
If yes you can told me how can I Upload it ,I'm definitely interested.

!!!! - June 27, 2014, 11:22 pm

Root access is not needed!! ;)

And no, the price is for single user license!

Yes you can bind your APK with any game or app and can upload to secondary markets or share it on some file hosting or APK hosting sites or torrents.

$210 for a Remote Administration Tool for a Android Only.

I've seen many around $40-50, not sales trashing but price is overpriced for no reason.

Yea u can execute another APK, but the problem is that Android will go through the usual procedure of installing only! That is, even when u open execute another APK, the installation procedure can be started only by the user! Only after the user says ok, the APK will start installing!

N yes I can do that! But I thought it wasnt a much helpful feature. Anyways I will develop that soon! :)

what u need is a complete RDP style feature to it, so that ppl can open and use other apps on their phone just as if they had it in their own hands. THAT would make the program $400 in my opinion. that has HUGE money making potential.

I haven't seen the code, but I'm assuming it uses many of the same functions as normal apps. For instance to take a picture from Instagram or Facebook it needs permission and then just initiates the camera. If Google wanted to fix this, they would need to change the code to take a picture. Which would break all other picture taking apps, which they will not do. It's unlikely that Google will go out of their way to stop this. Obviously if they come out with a new version of Android, a feature might not work because something was changed, but it would be a simple update to fix it.

Yes! It is undetected mate! :) also it can be binded within a game or any app which makes it even more silent!

odnorazovaya - July 21, 2014, 4:49 pm

OK, this is for everybody,

I got a chance to TEST out a new "extremely stable" BETA/RC of an update for Droid Jack.

1. Stability is great already (current version), but now, it went to a different level. I am not sure if I am authorized to disclose all the new "stuff" so I will leave it for developer himself, but still, can't leave without mentioning that it is stable on "connection" of your choice :) And when I say stable, I mean it. Especially for someone like me, who has been following Android Rattng ever since Androrat came out. All that half-ass coding, constant crashes and instability, headache with compiling, binding e.t.c you know what I mean.

2. I Can't really think of anything you can add more to DroidJack functions wise. It does pretty much anything you might wanna do with "your" RATted device. And if you can come up with something "crazy" that can be implemented coding wise, I am sure that developer is always open to new ideas/suggestions. It was tested on latest 4.4.4 and it worked flawlessly. And it will work on anything below that. It is BETA as of right now, however it is from developers point of view. If you ask me, it is extremely stable. This is a best product I spent my buck on so far. Worth Every penny.

Lycoso - July 21, 2014, 5:31 pm

If you can get physical access to the device, why would you wanna bind it with anything, just use the "hide it" function of Droid Jack. It will be invisible to owner of the device (unless he/she does digging deep in apps of course), and will be operating in the background. correct me if I am getting something wrong.

Looks like some pretty sweet updates. If this I possible, a nice feature would be to block the owner of the phone from seeing/receiving incoming texts for a certain amount of time or if you click a "stop" button, but having the user of DroidJack able to see them.

Hey,

I'm interested too and it's simple, we can use the IP of the infected Android instead of our own. Free VPN. But if you implement this, it would be better to implement it like a proxy ip:port:username:password if the port is needed to connect to it from everywhere without having the need of the RAT to connect to.

I was wondering if you have any date for the v3 ? Also it's totally FUD from any mobile AV ? Your tool got an article on journalist press, lol.

Oh and SMS received are visible to the user or not ?

- Can receive SMS without having them visible to the user, that mean no new message icon etc. would be a feature needed.

Actually you can phone a number but is it visible for the user and does the sound is audible for the user from the mic ?

I'll probably buy it when these features would be in.

okay, so i got another chance to test out the release candidate of 2.5 (stable).

I know first hand that developer has been working hard to deliver this particular release, so many thanks to him for that.

And the end result frankly saying is well worth it.

First and foremost, speed and stability when switching between networks improved significantly, and finally has reached the STABLE state, and this mostly/only applies to KitKat users(the last test we have conducted was using the latest 4.4.4), while users of other android versions were already enjoying stability since previous versions, and probably have no idea what i am talking about here:) File browsing speed, downloading and uploading(yes you heard me right, this one works perfectly as well) files from/to the infected device working flawlessly, and most importantly very fast. Features like remote ears, and hide app been fixed(for some of you who/if has been experiencing issues), and worked smooth at the time of last testing. And all minor (cosmetic) issues such as ip address format, country flag e.t.c has been fixed and polished up. It never really affected functionality , but nevertheless it was fixed by developer as well. Well, what else can i say, Droid Jack V2.5 Stable is almost here(and though i had a chance to do some testing i am just like all of you waiting for my updated DJ impatiently;))) , and i am sure you will enjoy it:) cause i did. ;)

Thanks to a developer for his hard work and dedication, and for bringing exciting new features with every new release.

I've been around the Android RATting and malware scene for awhile and I have never seen something so clean and easy to use. This is not some shitty version of AndroRat and does not cost anywhere near as much as other Android RATs with not even half of the features! All of the features are working flawlessly on my S5 running the latest firmware. There were no security popups warning me about installing and I scanned my entire phone with 4 of the most used virus scanners and it came up perfectly clean (Proving phone virus scanners are worthless).

Huge vouch for this, I know it's going to come in handy!

hey, this is for everyone again:)

so had this little conversation with a developer, and sounds like more AWESOMENESS is on the way, and knowing that he always keeps up to his promises, i am impatient already.

so sounds like the most popular demand/request is about to be addressed, yes you guessed it right, WHATSAPP messenger and similar stuff that goes with it. I was not able to get much out of him, but it seems like rooted device is required,.. nothing besides that... but on the other hand, what is it, if not an opportunity to think about other stuff you might request? i mean rooted device=more features right? so why don't you guys post here features you would wanna see in upcoming releases, and as we all know, possibility that it will get addressed is very high, right?

well, if that was not enough, how about this, I've heard that there is a new feature being developed that will allow/force the device that is currently offline to come back online,,, how?? don't know the details, but it looks like it will be triggered by sending sms to the device,,, HOW CRAZY IS THAT???) and those are only two, outta bunch that is upcoming...

anyway, just wanted to share it with you guys, you all have a good one!!!!:)

I don't think the price is to high if this functions well.

Does it keylog?

Reverse socks5 proxy?

Allow running the web browser hidden or other apps?

Scrape stored cookies/passwords?

One of the best remote access tools i have tried. I will give it 5 out of 5 for the fallowing reasons. Support is great and constant, without question when you buy this product you buy support.

Functionality is great i love the fact that the updates are constant

Not an other dendroid wich was very buggy this one in my opinion surpasses it.

Completely FUD malwarebytes couldn't get it

Stealth mode works

Is a must buy!!! If you want to administer your phones in a simple and efficient gui

ONE OF THE BEST PRODUCTS I'VE SEEN

Hi! :)

No it does not keylog! It can be set as device administrator but doing that will make it too suspicious!

N no not yet! But will surely look on reverse proxy!

N yes, it can open a site hidden and open any app on the device using DJ's App Manager!

N nope! Thats not possible!

Thnx for ur interest mate!

Adding a keylogger would make it too suspicious for the victim as it needs to be device administrator n it will be under services! But still can add optionally! Will work on this! :)

Quick question -

So only real working to spread is to bind with some known APK game or application ?

And it get connected when user start that application ?

and if user decides to delete the app, droidrat apk is also removed

Is that correct understanding ?

Purchased this Product 2 days before , checked with couple of Devices , it works amazing.

Binder is awesome feature which allow to bind the server in any app / game (checked with around to 6 apps, it works fine) ,

Connection is flawless , have not get any connection drop yet now.

yet to check feature like remote eyes and ears , will give you detailed review after checking all the features..

Awesome Android monitoring tool from Sanju , and really nice support from him.

You are free bind it or now but binding is better , yes will get connected at once , No the Droid apk don't remove only the binded application delete and the Droid Apk still run , also can enable Stealth Mod so the APK won't show in Application manager list :)

yes the reason you have that is because i was paid by satoshi to create the apk binder + search tool for the dendroid project. ive actually been on-board with a few different android related projects over the last year.

But obviously ide like to change the search tool to match the project name here aswell as maintain the upkeep on it (open the current apk search tool you have and take notice that it is not functioning at all due to several changes that need to be made to function with the app source's updates as of recent)?

I've read that Sanju offers free updates to his customers. I believe any app installed from a source other than google play will require the "unknown sources" setting to be checked. And I cannot comment on the number of PCs allowed because i m not quite sure.

yes you will get every updates for free its hard to bypass the security of unknown sources but don't worry about this because %99 of Android user enabled that , you can run the Client on Windows also on Mac too :)

I think he was asking if he can run the server on multiple computers or is he restricted to only one PC with his single license.

But its good to know that its compatible with PC and Mac due to being written in java! Another awesome selling point of this great software!

Anybody have possible solution for me? I am testing this out and find that i cant get any of the functions to work at all, as if its not sending the command to my device. I am connected fine so i know port forwarding is ok etc, but am unsure why i am only seeing loading bars on each command screen and not getting any result?

i must be doing something wrong, do i need to move the java libraries somewhere on my pc?

very interesting but seriously 210$ is totally overpriced, exactly the same for dendroid and his 300 dollars , just for information a friend of me sold his rat (for information , a french friend of mesold his one for 20 dollars , one of the first android rat ever relasednamed ratroid , banned here rom the marketplace because a few times ago it was not allowed) even with the apk binder (cost 50$)

I have been following android RAT development for a few years now, and i was yet to see a quality (fully functional)rat until i came across DroidJack. You gotta try it yourself (or request demo) to really appreciate it. And Costumer Support alone is worth more than 200 bucks. Just go over this thread, and you won't find a single disappointed costumer. You gotta think there is a reason for that...

Give it a shot buddy, and compare it to whatever else you have(tried, if ever)... and let us know your impressions;)

its not overpriced but its worth as far as i see there is no any other Android Rats advanced or have features like this even Droidjack have best stability and faster reporting also fast updates and big support from us , next version will come with new features and more unique ? also every update we reduce the apk size and this is another advantage of this Rat and to mention FUD & REFUD apk.. all this come for free and life time support until this Rat we manage it will stay a live.

I can understand people being hesitant about the price, but assuming its a top rate tool thats just the cost of doing business as I see it. Considering what one could turn around and make with such a tool in say one week $210 is a very small figure.

However that is a fair bit to drop on a botnet for some people. I'd love to try this out when I have some $$$ Dendroid was pretty unstable in my opinion. And just for your information your french friend selling "ratroid" was only selling 'Androrat' the free public open source rat which is incredibly unstable, and he was selling copies of MY binder with my permission, that i wrote to pair with androrat.

The fact that this tool you see here has every function listed actually working without crashing the android device or losing the connection speaks for itself. Sanju has put alot of work into this project and its worth every penny.

I have some questions:

This RAT does it include anything from the androrat? code, line, idea?
TCP or http connection for the apk server?
the apk file how can you delete it? simple like go to apps and click uninstall?
does the app appear on the recent window apps or any task manager like super task killer?

all is 4 android, Thanks...

This RAT does it include anything from the androrat? code, line, idea?
TCP or http connection for the apk server?
the apk file how can you delete it? simple like go to apps and click uninstall?
does the app appear on the recent window apps or any task manager like super task killer?

all is 4 android, Thanks...

all is 4 android, Thanks...You can't compare this to Androrat, though yes, the idea is the same:
Remote Administration/Monitor of Android Devices. DroidJack is far advanced version of Androrat you may say, but it is not based on any other source code and was written from scratch, all 18000+ lines....

I believe it is TCP

Yes , you can just uninstall it like any other apk if you have a physical access to the device. DroidJack also has a function that acts like a remote kill-switch, so when you use this function, it pretty much remotely modifies the server and renders it unusable.. It will no longer connect to DroidJack client and will remain on the phone as a junk file. You can make the server visible or hidden, you can bind it with other apk or use it on its own,.. You can disguise it even more by naming it whatever you like and you can choose a custom icon for the server.. It will show in running processes, but let me say this: By using a certain name and icon combination, you can obscure it to the extent when it completely blends into system processes, well i guess you got the idea

Just check out the feedback from costumers... currently it is at 100% satisfaction rate...

I don't think you know anything about what you're talking about. If you've ever seen AndroRAT's code, you would know it's a piece of shit and has almost no working functions. This couldn't be based off of that whatsoever because of how decrepit and crappy the code from AndroRAT was.

its quite simple. generate your apk, then upload it to someplace with a direct download file access such as dropbox. then go to www.goo.gl and shorten the direct download url. then on the phone you want to monitor you simply navigate to your short url IE: goo.gl/3Ea311 and the download starts, you install it, and done!

for me i will buy if it have or their is an intent to make , screen shot , remote screen , Viber calls record and messages , call recording , hiding app from uninstall ...

The best Android rat ever, that I have ever come across to. You should try it jackylim87 - November 10, 2014, 1:22 am this morning this RAT work find, but just now my slave always keep DC. What happen? And after a few try, the software will hang and i need to end it with task manager.

and i also try at my own android device,i will lose connection with my device after pressing a few function and after that droidjack wont able to detect me anymore.

just keep the ports as same defaults "1337" and its will work fine..the DC its because connections problem not from the rat thenewbit, janeann. Thanks a lot :)

asspeter7 i cant reply your pm, the RAT is superb. you cant find any other android rat that is so stable and a lot of function :)

so far is the best RAT i every have. Really worth :) and sorry for my bad english :)

That statement is completely out of line. Sanju is one of the few real developers on these forums who will go places in their real life career and simply use hf as a starting market as they grow. We are good friends and I trust him very much.

You do realize that you can decompile and check the source code of any android apk file, right? Which I've done so myself. There is nothing malicious that Sanju would have control of. Get off this forum.

You use the program and it creates an .apk file (The file format for Android applications). Then you only need to download and install the app and it will work.

Changelogs v4.0 beta:

APK Encryption (AES, DES, TripleDES, Blowfish).

Assign custom package name for DJ server.

Remove certain features from the server.

Remove permissions from the server.

Call conversation recording.

Live update of currently running app on main panel.

User idle time on main panel.

Adjust volume on remote device (Alarm, Music, Notification, Ringer, System, Voice).

Check latency between DJ control panel and DJ server.

Make DJ server persistent even upon factory reset (Requires Root access).

Crash Reporter implemented to track DJ server bugs.

View Draft SMS messages.

Disconnect Me Forever now disables the DJ server instantly.

File Voyager supports UTF-8 encoding to support various languages.

* Fixed several bugs.

you just have to build the apk file [dj apk] then install it on any android device then infect it or you can bind it , that is all then start game ?

It's just as simple as downloading and installing the .apk file just as you would an app distributed on the developer website.

It's actually easier to perform targeted RAT'ing because of how easy it would be to borrow someone's phone for ~60 seconds.

Seems easy enough. Is the license to this RAT tied to HWID or NetSeal or things like that? Or is it fairly portable?

I am fairly certain that it's HWID locked. However, this guy is extremely cool and will quickly switch your license if you ever need it.

Can you check if it uses NetSeal or any of that kind of ridiculousness? It's important for me to know whether it's something I'd invest in or not?

Also, what is the server application for managing the infected Android devices coded in?

asspecter7 - November 19, 2014, 11:43 pm

yea smaller packages would be cool id definitely grab one but a lifetime not a monthly thing, also whatsup with the login for the programs people always crack them either way, if its not netseal do you think this homemade protection is good enough to stand up to all the crackheads on the loose.

Yes, when usually coders make enough money (also have too many customers) then they discontinue project.

Say this coder sold 1000 copies and made 21.000 $.
While he is busy with spending his money he wouldn't have motivation to deal with 1000 customers that are always saying everyday;
-my client doesn't work
-i can't connect
-my file is detected
-where is my new version
-there is such a bug, problem ect ect...
So when he lost his motivation, most probably he would end project in 1 year or maybe he would sell source code to someone else.

Wut. This guy is dedicated. He's been working non stop to get new versions out right after the last.

90% of any problems that people have, is their technical issues, not a problem with his code. The remaining few percent are probably incompatible software versions or their own computer errors.

Subscription based models make more money month over month Vs. once-off payments, that's just pure common sense... Customer paying once vs customer paying monthly. I'm not even saying this guy isn't talent or a good dude, it's just logic. I haven't tried his tool, but if its real good, then people won't mind paying monthly to ensure that it's well supported with new features added. I understand alot of HF shit kids lack funds to pay a subscription fee, but that just means don't pander to the bottom of the barrel market.

Countless tools ended up biting the dust because the creator made them a one-time purchase, so when orders slowed down the creator had to bail because offering life-time support to 2000 customers who paid 1 year ago is sort of draining, with no more money coming in on a regular basis, you're basically working for free Version 4 is in beta and is still optional, all previous versions are quite stable. Haven't you ever gone to a software sites with very high version numbers and tons of releases with current stable releases as well as the most current beta release that isn't quite ready for the author to call it a full release?

Backtrack is a good example of this, even apktool which is used in this project has beta releases.

The purpose is to get a broad range of in the field testing and debugging done by people and get constructive feedback to fix bugs etc rather than push a non fully tested version out to every user and get bombarded with bug reports and angry customers.

wheres Sanu?... he hasn't been online for a while ?

holynfantry - December 5, 2014, 10:08 am

I purchased Droidjack 10 days ago and every time I log in it just disappear and Droidjack doesn't open! so Sanu told me to use a vpn and I did but now only 10% of the time it does open and it's really Slow then it closes after few min saying "Tokens" error. I tried contacting Sanju over skype to solve this or if he can't solve it then send me my money back! but he ignores me and the support on email & Skype no one replies for about 5 days! I don't know why he doesn't use NetSeal like all the HQ sellers on HF!! It has been 10 days since I paid 200$ for this and still it doesn't work for me and no support!!!

I will open a Scam report on Sanju if he or the support couldn't make it work on my pc.
It has been 10 days since I bought it and still not working so I've been very patient..

DroidJack Perform Well , if victim mobile have good connection speed.

bobbyntigers91 - December 8, 2014, 5:28 am

Gonna be purchasing this very soon!

Also , if anybody has a sophisticated proven method on how to monetize this, at least .05 cents per install. Please contact me and maybe we can work something out. (Please no illegal sms, premium calls methods...etc...)

Thanks

P.S. I was the 500th post on this thread. Woohoo!

I doubt they have ignored the massive amounts of infected apps. If you can manage to rename and hide all of the 'bad' parts of the infected apk that gets created, maybe it will work. But it could also screw up the controller.

It'd probably be better to create your own website and distribute actual apk's that work, with your infected apk binded to it.

I paid for this 3 weeks ago and I still can't use it.

The support can't do anything without the coder, no one solved my problem for 3 weeks so.. No I advice you to not buy this.

Will be opening a scam report after 1 month of the date of purchasing witch is next week.

Well I'm guessing if he kept records of who bought it, so it's likely they have information of a lot of people that bought it unless he took bitcoin or they used fake PayPal accounts. It's been weeks since he's allegedly been arrested and I haven't gotten anything. I also haven't done anything illegal with it though, so I'm not sure.
