Thread: Group userbar, official.

Hexicidal - June 28, 2014, 12:58 am

"L'appel du vide" - Call of the void, literally.

I favor "L'appel du vide" more, and with that I don't believe that userbar should have the expression on it if you are going to attempt it.

I'm not giving you any inspiration, I just want it within the normal HF requirements for a userbar.

136x42 and under whatever the limit is.

I'll spot whoever can come up with the userbar $50 BTC and a spot in the group. Post em', unless you think your work is so good I will accept it on the spot, then PM me.

Surprise me.

Tonight - June 28, 2014, 12:59 am

I can throw in another $10 BTC as well. Looking for some good submissions.

Zuse - June 28, 2014, 1:18 am

I might attempt this tomorrow, I'll see.

THIS IS NOT AN ENTRY.

Though I would share. I have done a little research on "L'appel du vide".
"A french phrase referring to the urge to jump from high places".
Just another way for the designers to look at it.

Edit:

I had something like this in mind.

Oh and inb4 "FBN COPY!"

It is only an idea, hush up.

You're not allowed to speak in other languages, may be the same for a group name, not sure.

I am sure he would clear it with Omni before even putting it out there as a potential name. Hex knows the guidelines and usually sticks to them. ?

If anybody can try out an idea for a design I have in mind, have at it.

- Man on a mountain

- Stars above him but like the lines drawn together for a particular constellation and algorithms floating above.
- Not a FBN knock off

But the issue would be a member copying the userbar of another member, not a group copying the userbar of another. Like what happened between Dark and that other guy on the Phoenix UB thread.

I personally like "Reach" better, if the intent of the group is similar to that of Logic and Void. It implies that the members are working together, grasping for truth with exchanged words. "REACH" People can have different user titles like "Void of our existence" but it could be "Reach for ____" for whatever is applicable to their most passionate area of discussion.

Last time I checked, Omni said he would allow userbars that weren't actually "bars". So why hasn't anyone thought outside of the box and produced something more innovative?

I know this really can't be the userbar (It's pretty much the old Void ficon after all), but it could be something along these lines:

Maybe just a hand reaching through an abyss?

Maybe just a hand reaching through an abyss?

I agree completely. I think anyone designing a userbar for any group should ditch the idea of a rectangle background of any sort unless it's an integral part of the group's name/purpose.

It's not a problem to change that, since it's just an arbitrary shape used as a background. What's more important is the actual design.

Hexi,

If I were to make this userbar, does it really have to be this elaborate, type thing? Can't we just do something NOT in the ordinary realms and just stick to something incredibly basic, but meaningful?

Instead of a picture of space or a pair of hands, what about something as simple as a blacken background with greyish white letters: "Void/Reach"?

Bro, it makes me feel pity when thinking about you, trying so hard to prove yourself hole. Really it does, you know whats the beauty about 'resources' are? Well since you don't want to know let me elaborate. It is a pack of items shared in community so that when other good peoples are trying to create something/anything they can save their useful time and use the 'items' to save time. In short, it's always been there to be used.

Regarding the 'other parts' I don't feel the need to give proofs to be a wannabe. Hope it doesn't offend you but be offended otherwise ?

(Jul 4, 2014 01:40 PM)Un.titled Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What are pill styled userbars? Userbars with a rectangle/rounded rect?

In general no rectangle background is preferred by anyone, including Omni. A lot of old groups still have that design but it is strongly discouraged for new userbars. The exception would be if it was a key component of the group name or image. For example, if your group was called "Rectangle" then it'd make sense to have a rectangle background (though still may not be preferred). Or, if the group was called "Money" and you create a dollar bill-shaped userbar.

Not trying to upset you or anyone else, just trying to further explain. All userbar request threads lately have a lot of submissions where they're using a pill/bar/rectangle background that has little more than a fancy border and/or effort put into designs within it.

O.o I have to say I just realized the similarities between my work and that tutorial, but I hope to assure you that any resemblance to that or any tutorial is completely coincidental. Color scheme was referenced from hex's first few posts and my thought process is below:

The original idea behind my userbar is that I wanted to abstractly represent the 'void', which is most commonly connected to some sort of black hole in space..etc.... Initially it was just the large 'void' and it felt too centered, so I added a second, smaller sphere to balance out the piece. Because of its abstract foundation, you can say it resembles a moon orbiting a planet, or the void consuming some thing. Regardless, it's meaning can be much more abstract and can be interpreted differently but the idea ultimately revolves around the idea of something close to a void-like object in a space-like setting. Which is supposed to give the viewer a much more dynamic experience. Unlike just being a blatant black hole/void.

Whether I managed to achieve that experience is something that I will leave to you to decide. Regardless, I hope that any misunderstandings were clarified.

Add some sort of black hole to the center of the hands, a tiny one, as if the hands were reaching into the void. That'd make for a good Reach/L'appel du vide concept.

Not quite what I wanted.

The wings need to be distinguished more, like the outline of them to make them crisper.

I believe userbars can't be animated anymore.

It's looks very nice though.

Because they haven't changed their userbar since the rule.

PM staff about it if you'd like.

I don't think you have to be good at graphics to say if you like it or not.

Every time there is a userbar thread for a group it's pretty obvious whose is the best and most of the time its the one where majority of the people like it.

Chocoholic - August 3, 2014, 4:46 pm

I like this one but maybe flip the hands to where it is holding like some glowing energy or maybe a small universe.

You don't have to be a prima donna to decide whether or not someone can sing.
