Does this APP kill and is it persistent?

IntelliJ - June 29, 2014, 9:19 pm

It completely locks windows. Ctrl alt delete doesn't work, alt tab doesn't work, etc.

It can be persistent, however we've currently disabled that feature. It wouldn't make sense if it kept coming back, now would it? "I just activated my windows, why do I have to do it again?" It's going to seem less authentic and legitimate over time.

What if the user doesn't download they key and reboots his/her computer? Wouldn't it make MORE sense for it to be persistent?

And simply remove the reg key or whatever after they have done the survey.

Like the idea here but it's not the "best" way to monetize your bots. People reformat and you lose them over a simple dollar? ?

Use them to push traffic to YT videos for high partnership earnings. I make $3500-$6000 monthly from this and my net is barely over 8k.

While that's true, in our testing we found that even if they did restart their computer and we lost them, we'll get them within the next two download execute functions we do. For testing purposes on Jokeh's initial release I downloaded it on approximately 400 bots (the DL execute rate on Coiner isn't perfect,) I received $26.

Most people won't reformat. As I stated above, we tested it on 400 bots. We stopped all other tasks (mining, etc) and we downloaded and executed the locker. We received $26, and in a 12 hour period we lost 4 bots. We can't quite tell if this is a bug within Coiner (as it's a heavily bugged botnet,) or if they reformatted or got rid of our executable.

Edit: Out of those 400 bots, about 325 of them are from non-English speaking countries. US bots are simply just hard to obtain. From 400 executions, we can estimate that 25%-50% did the survey, and that gave us $26. For a $1 investment, I'm fairly certain that's worth it.

Permissions kind of fuck this up though, and it's not that simple.

Is this .NET like every other survey locker?

Yes. Sadly, I haven't seen a locker that does not require .NET.

It's extremely difficult to make it not require .NET. If we were to make it so it didn't require .NET, we wouldn't be selling it for $1, or anywhere near that.

Agreed, I may work on a locker that does not require .NET, for the same price...

Sounds like a good idea.

I'm online and accepting orders for the next 10 hours.

IntelliJ - July 5, 2014, 9:46 pm

Accepting orders! It stopped being FUD but now it's fixed again!

Wired? - July 6, 2014, 11:37 am

I'm confused, do we just PM you to purchase? I cannot click on the thread design and I can't find where it specifies how to pay.

Thanks for the post!

Unfortunately we only provide FUD crypts to our locker, seen here on this thread. We can't assist you in that matter, we apologize.
