Thread: Credit Card gifts cards more than \$500?

Cubs - July 6, 2014, 8:09 am

I have looked everywhere for this. I don't have a credit card but I want to make a purchase on amazon that is $1,100. I need some kind if credit card I can buy at a stores with cash. Any suggestions would be great.

Try to get a greendot card and putting money in it. That always works for me.

Why don't you just give yourself amazon credit and let it stack on?

OP has cash. What's he going to do, mail them cash?

In Canada we have a personal prepaid credit card that you can refill and add more money to.

Otherwise buy a couple of the lower value gift cards and buy yourself gift cards on amazon with them

You can easily buy tons of $100 Amazon Gift Cards until they stack up.

I'd just get a debit/credit card. If you're buying stuff like that then you'll eventually need one.

EDIT: Money pack or something would probably do the trick.

OP is probably refunding and doesnt want to keep AGC on his acc. Try greendot, it works most of the time.

I think you can get re loadable visa's but you have to register you SSN with them.
