

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Java for beginners - Step by step guide \(video\)

unknownme08 - July 7, 2014, 7:06 am

I wanna share one of the useful link I use in learning java. :)

Link: <https://www.Udemy> (warez disallowed).com/java-tutorial/

You can also find lots of courses there.

I hope I help you. :) ? ? ?

Shoultzyy - July 7, 2014, 4:19 pm

(Jul 7, 2014 07:06 AM)unknownme08 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wanna share one of the useful link I use in learning java. :)

Link: <https://www.Udemy> (warez disallowed).com/java-tutorial/

You can also find lots of courses there.

I hope I help you. :) ? ? ?

Thanks, been looking for a teaching website like this.

Codeacademy doesn't have java or c, so that website was useless.

And the good ratings on this site are promising. But I always like to hear from an experienced coder who has looked through the courses.

Tranquility - July 8, 2014, 9:37 am

You can always try <https://thenewboston.org>. It has a massive amount of tutorials for all kinds of computer related subjects and even a few real-life experimental things.

scorpio60 - July 8, 2014, 8:36 pm

thank you, is java pre installed ? someone tell me that

nOrr - July 9, 2014, 10:51 am

(Jul 8, 2014 09:37 AM)Tranquility Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can always try <https://thenewboston.org>. It has a massive amount of tutorials for all kinds of computer related subjects and even a few real-life experimental things.

I'm getting this when I try to visit it...

Noped - July 9, 2014, 10:59 am

(Jul 8, 2014 09:37 AM)Tranquility Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can always try <https://thenewboston.org>. It has a massive amount of tutorials for all kinds of computer related subjects and even a few real-life experimental things.

Was just about to post about that website, on my 3rd year degree and still using it.

Tranquility - July 9, 2014, 1:01 pm

Try without the https instead.

<http://thenewboston.org/>

Snapple Tea - July 10, 2014, 6:23 pm

Thanks for the post! Offer was ending in 3 hours :p Just got here in time haha