Thread: Fall Anime Chart is Here!

Gladly - July 9, 2014, 7:06 am

Edit: V2 of the chart is now up! Feast your eyes, this is what the fall season will most likely look like. For more titles, check out <http://anichart.net/fall>

Edit: Well shit, V4. Lots of new news on OVAs, release dates among other things. Fall starts next week, get hyped!

Figured since I made one of these for the Summer season that I'd make one for Fall. What are you looking forward to for Fall? For me, it's F/SN and maybe a few others I'm too tired to try and find. You're welcome to post any relevant charts/stories/info on the Fall season.

Big thanks to atxpieces for the chart.

cacnecac - July 9, 2014, 7:35 am

Yeah Fall looking real good

Chaika s2

fate/night

PP 2 and few others up there :D

Hume - July 9, 2014, 8:03 am

I really, REALLY, hope they don't fuck up the Grisaia No Kajitsu anime, it better follow Makina's route. One of my favourite VNs.

wellager - July 9, 2014, 9:10 am

I'm pretty sure Log Horizon s2 is supposed to air in Fall? Anyway, Terra Formars kind of reminds me of Halo and I'm a big halo fanboy so I'll probably watch that.

Highschool something something looks interesting. Trinity Seven too.

A?? ?fH????s - July 9, 2014, 10:00 am

Trinity Seven

World Trigger

Buddy Complex SP

Really looking forward to those 3. Aren't there supposed to be more anime coming out though like Log Horizon S2?

Gladly - July 9, 2014, 10:37 am

Yes, Log Horizon S2 is supposed to be there, there may be a few shows missing. Alternate chart is at anichart.net.

nickchan - July 9, 2014, 11:20 am

Thanks I'm espically looking foward to World Trigger, Girl Friend Beta, Denki-Gai No Honya-San.

TheElo124 - July 9, 2014, 11:34 am im only really interested in ronia the robber's daughter by the great studio ghibli

zSteve - July 9, 2014, 12:16 pm

World trigger sounds interesting. Thank you again for making another awesome chart!

Ang?I - July 9, 2014, 3:23 pm

I'm really looking forward to Amagi Brilliant Park since its from the same writers of Full Metal Panic. I also can't wait to watch the Fate/ Stay Night remake

Chips Ahoy McCoy - July 9, 2014, 4:04 pm

There's actually some pretty interesting ones in this list. I'll probably check out Fate/Stay Night

Duyere - July 9, 2014, 4:08 pm

Awesome!

I'm looking forward to quite a bit on that list. Looking to see how that new Gundam see fairs out as well. Been waiting for a new Gundam series forever now.

Gladly - August 6, 2014, 4:58 pm

Updated with the V1 chart! Thanks for reminding me about the Fall chart Bleeding :p

No problem lol, you reminded me to actually check the chart today and see how the upcoming season looks.

?Tet? - August 6, 2014, 5:10 pm

Oh wow that's a really well put together chart thanks there's 17 coming out this fall that I'll be watching can't wait.

Jay? - August 6, 2014, 5:23 pm

New Gundam Psycho Pass 2 and Rakuen Tsuihou: Expelled From Paradise?

I came.

Rade. - August 6, 2014, 5:28 pm

thanks for the post mate, looks like its going to be a good season

eight - August 6, 2014, 6:06 pm

But.. but.. I'm still working on summer season. :(

Later in 2011-2012, Fate/Zero, a prequel to F/SN, was released. It's my favorite anime of all time. The original creator is Gen Urobuchi (who I know you love ;)) and I HIGHLY recommend it. You don't need to watch the original F/SN series if you don't want to.

The reason a lot of people (including me) are so hyped about the Re-make of F/SN is it's by the Ufotable, the same studio that made F/Z.

You like Fate/Zero that much? Is it really that good? It's been on my plan to watch list for a while, never got around to watching it.

This is 100% correct. Also, remaking F/SN would make the series as a whole alot better, and everyone can drop the "eh you can just watch F/Z since F/SN isn't that good", and Type Moon fanboys like me can brag even more about how good the Fate series is.

Lol, you seem pretty passionate about it. I'm going to watch it tonight after I catch up with Akame ga Kill.

Definitely go watch it, it's one of my all time favorites. Watching Fate/Stay Night gives you a better understanding of everything, but you don't have to watch it first if you really don't want to. Episode 1 is a 50 minute info dump, so just stick through it. It's on Netflix in 1080p too, dubbed and subbed (I liked the sub here).

Ang?I - August 29, 2014, 7:22 am

That Gen Urobuchi movie coming out though, can't wait (° ? °)

And I didn't realized they were releasing a D-Frag! Ova.

Lyrlei - August 29, 2014, 7:26 am

Ugh, so many colorful anime's this season again, luckily theres LH 2.

neightworks - August 29, 2014, 8:11 am

Only thing that stood out at all was Squid Girl.

None the less will probably watch 1/4th if not more of what's going to air.

I'm a bit scared this remake might turn out to be a flop. Fate/Zero was actually written by Urobuchi, who made it a lot more darker and, what can I say, intelligent, than the Fate series ever was. Fate/Stay Night is also a visual novel, and visual novel adaptations are generally a lot harder to pull off well, especially with all the expectations people have of this show. Yes, Fate/Zero fans have already hyped this to astronomical degrees.

But yeah, what I'm most afraid of is that Gen Urobuchi has absolutely nothing to do with this. The animation and sound are definitely bound to be fucking god tier, but the writing is going to be a lot simpler and more shounen-esque than all the Fate/Zero fans will be expecting..

That aside, these recent seasons have been pretty fucking amazing. This time we have Fate/Stay Night, Psycho Pass 2, Expelled From Paradise, and the second part of Mushishi Zoku Shou, all of which I'm sure are going to be pretty great. Then there are things like Log Horizon 2, which I personally liked the first season of, and Donten ni Warau, which I've heard is a really good shoujo manga, if you're into those kind of things.

I'm personally not too excited about Ronia the Robber's Daughter or World Trigger. I was really hyped for Ronia when it was first announced, being Ghibli's first actual TV anime and directed by Miyazaki's son to boot. After watching the PV for it, however, turns out it's likely going to be a full-CG anime, which are nothing but cancer. Here, take a look:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BsYWw0AzMAS>

And World Trigger is just going to be a typical overhyped shounen, we have one of those every season. I'm just not interested.

With Gen Urobuchi being a key role to Fate/Zero's success, it does worry me that he isn't writing it. I'm still trying to be as optimistic about it as I can though, the fact that it even got a second chance means that they know they fucked up. Like you said, I'm not worried about the sound or animation, just story. The bright side is that both Heaven's Feel and the Unlimited Blade Works arcs are being adapted into anime. There's quite a few things in the Fate franchise being released.

Urobuchi is a writer, not a director. I am glad they decided to adapt two routes though, and I'm still staying optimistic so far. This is ufotable we're talking about, after all.

No, I haven't. You said it was mediocre, so I thought ehh.. what's the point. Should I binge it before watching the remake?

The upside of watching it is you have something to compare it to when the remake comes out.

I haven't looked into most of the upcoming anime too much so my expectations are average but World Trigger looks like it could be pretty interesting and I'm hoping the continuation of LH is a success. :D

Not really. I'm gonna leave my high expectations for the Winter when Durarara season 2 will come out.

Well shit, I didn't even notice the adaptation of Parasyte was airing this season. Read some of the manga ages ago but never got around to finishing it, heard some really good things about it.

Either way it looks fucking beautiful, I'd expect nothing less from Madhouse. They could either pull one of the best gore anime yet here or an Another.

Or better yet, a Blood-C, in which case I will proceed to kill myself.
