Thread: [\[Coming Soon\] WebEdit a text editor made by a WebSite developer for Website Developer](#)

What is WebEdit?

WebEdit is a text editor I've personally been working on lately. It will be free and it's made specifically for website developers. There is syntax highlighting, a live pre-view, and you can even make live edits to a website via FTP uploading. Sounds great doesn't it? The only catch is that you need the ".NET 4.5 dependency", that's not too bad is it?

When Can I get it?

Well, I've been working my ass off for a week trying to get this released asap. It should be out by the end of this week, it will be in alpha stage so there may be bugs, please report them.

I will make a new thread with a thread design when I can get this released.

I understand my rep may make you not want to download this, I'll be providing many virus scans, and hopefully I can get a few members to download and vouch.

EDIT: Well, I have to recode like half of this project due to an error on my end. Give me 2 weeks until the release.

What makes this different from something like Brackets?
