Happeh - July 18, 2014, 10:37 am

I think I've built the hype train enough for this to warrant a discussion thread. Romance + drama x straight to the story = best anime this season(?)

Will update with a synopsis.

Sacchi is best girl.

0x1027 - July 18, 2014, 11:06 am

I like it. Not in my top 5 this season but very good anime

Happeh Edition of my comment:

THIS IS THE GREATEST ANIME OUT THERE IT IS DEFINITELY ANYONE'S NUMBER ONE THIS SEASON :3

Bezo - July 18, 2014, 11:41 am

IMO, The characters personalities and looks are way to similar to the characters in Nagi No Asukura.

They look basically the same. Other than that, I have no problems with the anime.

This is probably in my Top 5 but not the Number 1. My number one would probably be either Tokyo Ghoul or Zankyou no Terror. Maybe Ao Haru Ride as well. It's a great Romance anime.

Forgot about these two, that and Free + SAO (really top season this one is). Still, probably my top because I'm a big romance buff.

Is that better? I made a few changes to the post :3

Chitoge - July 18, 2014, 1:14 pm

I've been watching it and I kind of like it.

Spoiler \(Click to View\) Just the feeling that it's going to be a love triangle is eh...

cacnecac - July 18, 2014, 3:06 pm

I'm not going to lie, I haven't even checked out Glasslip yet, but I probably will start tonight, due alot of people saying its good.

So far I'm only watching Akame / Tokyo Ghoul and Barakamon (PEOPLE WATCH THIS NOW!), Tokyo ESP and Terror.

Heck I'm not even watching Gale Gun Online or whatever.

GGO isn't going so well in my opinion.

I don't think I'm going to like it in the end and find it a waste of time. Yet I'm still watching it, wtf... But yeah, you can give this a shot, I'm liking it. I'm wondering where it's going though.

Glasslip is one of my favourites this season. Really enjoying the character interactions, but I have a feeling it may result in heartbreak for me.

Dark Neko - July 18, 2014, 9:33 pm

Doubt this will be as good as Nagi No Asukara, especially since it is only going to have 13 episodes. Lets see where it goes.

Don't get me wrong Nagi was pretty good, but it was kinda dragged out.

Bezo - July 31, 2014, 10:26 am

Spoiler (Click to View) Touka is finally growing to like or admitting she like Kakeru.

I wonder how it's going to pan out with Yuki and Touka.

Nagi no Asukara had me hooked from the first episodes this series ended up being dropped after the 3rd episode

The thing is that they're technically step-bro and sis. If something were to happen, it would be kind of weird imo.

This last episode the music was just on point a mix of violins, pianos, and flutes. The OP and ED are still "Meh" in my opinion.

White Album 2 CC & CODA spoilers (very minor):

Spoiler (Click to View) It doesn't get any better from this point on sadly. :(CODA and CC are filled with sadness and heartbreak. Someone always gets hurt, no matter which route you take.

I hope they adapt CODA and CC into an anime sometime soon. It would suck if they just left us hanging like that.

OT: The story is good enough to keep my interested. I highly doubt this will be the next "Nagi no Asukara", though. I love the art. :)

Aar?n - August 2, 2014, 1:44 pm

I'd honestly drop this anime if I wasn't watching this weekly.

Nothing has happened so far and I feel like I don't know anything about the characters except that they like someone.

The animation/artstyle is great but the plot is obscure at the moment.

I know what you mean.

The plot progression is kind of slow. The character development seems to be going at a good pace though, imo.

Happeh - August 4, 2014, 12:33 am

So Sacchan keeps getting cuter and cuter. Best girl.

Azsry - August 4, 2014, 12:41 am

It's like a cute, yet dumbed down version of Tari Tari that also tries to slide some romance in. I don't know if I like it or not. The drawing style is nice with all the colours, but as others have said the story is slow and feels awfully cliched.

Happeh - August 4, 2014, 12:59 am

I don't quite get what people mean by "the story". The story is a bunch of kids realizing they love each other, nothing more, nothing less. I mean you wouldn't want everyone to confess in one episode, then fall out in the next, then get together in just three eps.

That's true, but I think (this is what I was referring to as 'story', anyway) that the subplot between Kakeru and Touko being able to see the future hasn't been explained enough. They hint at it every episode, but it's still makes me confused.

Bezo - August 7, 2014, 11:12 am

I think that Touko rejected him? I think...?

Love Pentagon: The Anime!

Seriously though, they still haven't given us any reason to care about the characters and it's nearly 1/2 finished.

What? The whole future-seeing thing between the two protagonists, the fact Sacchan is quite ill and goes to the hospital often, the overlaying love plot between the group, and they all promised not to date and now that that's broken everyone (so far) is having their hearts broken.

I'm getting bored of defending this anime now. It's just a simple enough love story between a group of people. The pendulum was shook when an unknown character entered and now everything is swinging. Not everything has to have this super-dark background character who you can empathize with.

ripmchen - August 8, 2014, 4:07 am

Love glasslip, one of the few animes I'm looking forward for a new episode every week. It has a similar feel to Nagi no Asukara

Happeh - August 11, 2014, 3:53 pm

Episode 6 Spoilers (Click to View)Wow, that was interesting. Lots of drama and lots of character development. Looking forward to the next episode alot now. Glad David-kun and Touko are finally admitting their feelings tho.

Also, Davids voice actor is really annoying. I'm guessing he's not supposed to show any emotion, but its just ugly to listen too. When he cried at the end, nothing, when he was hit and being sarcastic, nothing. Ugh.

gunzlord - August 11, 2014, 11:16 pm

What episode did you drop it at? If you dropped it before episode 13, You missed out big time. It picks up around the 2nd half.

Episode 3. The setting just didn't work out for me. I might pick it back up again since Glasslip seems to share several commonalities with it.

Surprised no one has posted on this...

I wonder what that was...?

Wow, shit, what an episode.

Spoiler (Click to View) So it seems David and Touko are now dating, not quite GF BF seem as she asked, but still cute. Touko slowly becoming best girl.

Not sure what this thing is with Yuki, sounds like he has an inferiority complex and people fill that for him.

Also as for the future sight thing, my hunch is they can both see peoples emotions too... So for example she sees the crows attacking her just as Yanagi feels or David falling because he was falling in love? Just a guess.

Feel super bad for Hiro too. He seemed really upset at the end. :(

I'm thinking of giving this show another shot today- though the flavor is too sweet.

I've watched and read some reviews for the most recent episode and more and more reviewers for this anime are hoping and predicting that the anime will take a slightly 'darker' route.

Can't wait to see what's next.

Dragon. - August 29, 2014, 10:50 pm

So. We're almost wrapping up this season. Is Glasslip still worth the watch?

Happeh - August 30, 2014, 4:20 pm

@Everyone, yes make sure to watch it. It's rather interesting but its focused on the characters and their relationships. Although the first episode bills it to be this "future seeing" anime it really isn't. That plays a small part for the first 8 episodes so far and its more about the characters and their emotions and feelings for each other.

Very good watch so far but worried about the ending. We're getting back into the future stuff so wondering if its going to do a U-turn.
