Thread: Got a stomach ache by this picture

Regulus - July 23, 2014, 1:15 am

Damn, i'm sorry but i'm kinda scared shitless now after seeing this picture. Anyone got "Thalassophobia" (Fear of being in the ocean / Deep water)?, because i'm pretty sure i got myself a new phobia.

Sure thing i LOVE to swim around in the sea / ocean and jumping from cliffs but this picture made me sick, pretty much every time i jump into the sea / ocean i will think of this picture from now on. What do you guys think?

The picture is fucking HUGE, and i mean huge so i'm putting it in a spoiler and a link to Imgur!

Nooooo that picture is freaking me out man. It's scarier to know that that's a pretty accurate representation of the ocean.

cacnecac - July 23, 2014, 1:16 am

Its our lord and savior Cthulu... whats so scary about it?

joking aside yes this is also one of my phobia.

flux. - July 23, 2014, 1:17 am

I've seen this picture a few times and it still scares me..

CCBM - July 23, 2014, 1:18 am

Doesn't scare me.

I personally think the picture is really cool.

Erwin Schrödinger - July 23, 2014, 1:21 am

$uicidal - July 23, 2014, 1:23 am

I've always had a fear of deep water and large open areas.

It sucks, but I'm starting to overcome it slightly.

Regulus - July 23, 2014, 6:07 am

I have not always had a fear of this but after looking at this picture i must say i officially have a new phobia to be honest haha :)

futana - July 23, 2014, 6:22 am

Pictures like this scare me, and so do pictures of mythical creatures that swim in the ocean

Water is spooky

CyberAlien - July 23, 2014, 6:31 am

Well nice picture, but i'm going to swim now . . . ?

LootHF - July 24, 2014, 12:46 pm

That didn't scare me at all because it looks so fake. I'm not scared of water or the ocean, idk why. I think I just don't really care about the fish swimming there.

Except for sharks, fuck sharks.

Awesome photo, nothing to be scared of though.

$hmoney - July 24, 2014, 1:11 pm

I've seen this picture a lot. I'd like to know how the man got there, and why there isn't a huge, brown wave of shit around him. I would be panicking too much and that ginormous octopus looking thing would swoop me up. F*ck that!

First Name - July 24, 2014, 1:12 pm

This picture certainly strikes fear into my small and large intestines. I don't like swimming in an area where I can't see the bottom, and the shady figure at the bottom of the picture scares me...

gore - July 24, 2014, 1:13 pm

It's not that bad tbh. Maybe I became insensitive to that pic because I've seen it before.

I have always had a fear of going deep into the ocean because of stuff like that.

But deep waters in pools and shallow parts of the ocean are amazing and fun.

I used to be scared of the ocean as a whole, but I went to the Gulf of Mexico in Florida from June-July and had the time of my life on the beach.

So now it's just deep ocean water, like that picture.

Street Style - July 24, 2014, 1:14 pm

Ocean is pretty spooky since we know so little about it.

I don't think you understand how afraid of that picture I am not.

You've got it backwards. How the hell are you afraid by that picture? Even if you imagine it, it isn't scary at all.

There's murder, rape, and suicide that happen in the suburbs and streets everywhere and you're going to let this image scare you?

That's kind of a sign of weakness on your parts. This picture does very very little for me.

A lot more developed than that. You've gotta be stupid if you think that's any kind of close analysis or judgment in which you actually think it's true in person.

Get the hell off of the internet and learn how to talk to people like that in person.

You're only able to talk to people like that behind the internet so I guarantee that you're projecting about your own character and image which I truly do not even give a flying fuck about.

Oh, I bet you can't....

Light starts to stop showing at around 600ft under water.. now, imagine you're above the Mariana's Trench. You have around 36,070ft (6 miles) of darkness under you in which you have no idea what is down there. Imagine being stranded out in the middle of the ocean having to tread water when there is 6 miles of darkness under you.

That is some motivation to try and get rescued right there.
