Thread: Scammed 26\$ BTC by elvy666 UID=117440

Cainam - July 23, 2014, 5:13 pm

I was scammed 26$ in BTC by elvy | uid=117440

Scammers Profile: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=117440>

I sent the user 26$ via BTC and he was going to give me 8.66m on rs07

When i said "Done" to him in runescape meaning i sent it. He instantly logs off.

I replied to you after logging out on my thread : <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4355390>

The reason I logged was to hop worlds to show another user my OSRS gold stock, as payment had not been completed at that time and was still pending.

You then pmed me explaining that pending means it has gone through and I logged in, pmed you to go same world but varrock east bank and you followed my character and I dropped the gold under you (As that's how a drop trade works). You even did the "Dance" emote after picking up the gold.

And unless the rules have changed, pictures of private messages are not allowed on HackForums.

Bullshit. I did not. I didnt confirm a thing on HF. and thats the only way that works. You didnt confirm that you were dropping anything to me. Lets see that screenshot of my character that i PM'd you the name of "Dancing" as you say.

I SAW you on Bloodarrow42's profile and you sold him the gold. You never sold me my 8.66m

If I didn't sell you the 8.66m why did I go from my thread that said selling 25m, to an hour later making a thread that I was selling 15m because that's all that was now left? Lol

I don't take screenshots of sales as they are done by drop trading, and it would make no sense to take a picture of your character standing beside me as the picture can't show if you have looted the gold off of the ground on runescape or not.

And I'm going to check if pictures of pm's are now allowed, and if so I will post the pictures of the pms that you left out, with me instructing you where to meet me, to follow for me to drop gold, and that we would do the drop trade after walking from V East bank to the northeast trees. In the pm I also mentioned to not speak in game as I didn't want to flag my character for RWT.

If you think you're going to use HF as a means to try and extort me for extra rsgp you've got it wrong.

Cainam - July 23, 2014, 5:26 pm

LOL really? Ok make sure you post the times? You said "World 306 still?" and then got off HF and i kept pming you. And then I said I had to go to work and I wasnt happy how you have dealt with this so far.

Cainam - July 23, 2014, 5:33 pm

Here are the last two messages i have recieved. He never pm'd me trying to confirm any trade or anything. Hes 100% lying.

His last message 10:59am

EDIT: Just saying. 95% of the time when a deal involving more than 5$ people rep each other after the trade. NO Confirmations were made via pm or even any reputation left.

Obli - July 23, 2014, 5:35 pm

I am going to give OP the benefit of doubt since so far I can't really precisely say if he really scammed or not. BUT, he's acting all scared about OP posting PMs, which is okay with the rules btw, and he didn't prove that he did drop the gold so far.

AND, transaction appeared on the blockchain.

I see what you're trying to say. At least he'd have PMed you back saying "Hey, I dropped the gold" or "why didn't you pick it up??" but he didn't as it seems.

ShikTik - July 23, 2014, 5:39 pm

What do you mean to confirm trade?

Why would I need to pm you after you picked up the gold, to inform you that you've picked up the gold?

You're not going to get any extra gold from me. If you'd like your BTC back then give me my gold back, we can even do increments.

I explained that he did the "Dance" Emote on top the spot after picking up the gold. That was obviously enough confirmation to me that he had received the gold.

You obviously are not familiar with the process of RWT and the many people that get banned for flagged, unbalanced trades. Drop trading is the same process I use when transferring the gold I get to my mules, and the same process I use when selling gold.

Well, can you prove it in anyway? Did you contact him once he did the "dance" emote? And more specifically, do you leave all your buyers like that? Do you have anyone we could ask questions to, and by this I mean someone who has dealt with you in the past, in order to prove that you did NOT scam?

Cheers.

His thread said he was selling 25m. I am like 90% sure he kept my money and then sold the 25m to Bloodarrow42. He was only supposed to give me 8.66m.

After selling the gold to my customers I have little to no contact with them until next time they pm me needing gold. I find no need to have discussions with customers after they receive their product. My product requires no support, assistance, and no need for a conversation to follow them receiving their product, let alone when they do an emote on runescape clearly symbolizing that they where happy that they had received their product (His choice of the dance emote).

And I usually don't sell gold on hackforums, I sell to the clan community, and have been selling for several years.

I do have 50+ vouches on other products I have sold on the marketplace section of this website, and no disputes have ever arisen from those.

PM Bloodarrow and ask him if I sold him any gold, I did not. If I had scammed you I would have scammed him too, but I told him I was out of gp as I had just sold the other 15m right before he had pmed me.

I've stated my side, and am done ing your thread full of lies and false accusations which you have no evidence to back up other than that I didn't hold up a conversation with you on HF after you had already confirmed with a positive emote that you where happy and had received your gold (Based on your choice of the Dance emote as opposed to angry emote).

And fyi for you guys that don't know bout rs, the emotes are your actual character moving, it's not like a chat symbol or smiley. His character danced.

I see the logic behind this. It would be hard to believe that you would ruin your reputation on HackForums for a profit of what, .04 BTC? which isn't even worth the value of your account AND your gold stock, am I correct?

Only way I could think is if I where to vid everytime I sell gold. Which I now see I'm going to have to begin to do.

And I've considered trying assist the customer to the next fullest extent, but that extent would mean giving into his extortion tactic he's using to try and get more gold from me, and he may try to do it again in the future, and even if not then I would be loosing out on money that I earned due to a scammer.

Done ing this thread full of lies and false accusations. Have dealth with 100+ users of HF in the past on the marketplace and have never had a problem. Some of those transactions have been for quite a lot of money (BTC/PP/Trades). If anyone wants my side of the story, read page 1 and 2 of replies.

I dealt with the OP last night and went first to him, quick and easy transaction and I have no reason to believe that he would lie for an even lesser amount. Seems very sketchy that anyone would drop trade especially without taking proofs, you have to be moving a serious amount of gold for your account to even be remotely flagged and even then you won't get banned for RWT immediately.

I've known Elvy666 for several years and he wouldn't scam somebody for $26 of Runescape gold. He can get that in one kill at mage bank and is known to be a good brid, it's not worth his time when he could just go pk for some more money. I honestly know a good 50+ people who have bought RSGP off of him and not a single one has ever had any problems.

Phobix - July 24, 2014, 8:22 am

If this is the real Elvy666 that I remember (98% sure), I'm not surprised he went the drop trade route. Elvy is a name everybody knows inside and outside of RS, he's a huge RWTer. He also has a long history of other things. Drop trading is his way of remaining safe, and seeing the dance emote part goes along with the idea of not getting flagged by Jagex.

It makes sense. You can't target him on this aspect, if OP knew this was the plan then there isn't much to say more on this part.

I don't know you OP but Elvy loses time by having to put up with bad trades. Time he can invest into his other trades. 26$ is pennies to him, which leads me to believe he wouldn't scam you.

Hope you too can resolve this. Neutral standpoint.

How does it make sense to drop gold to a random person when the guy that just paid you 26$ keeps pming you asking whats going on? Im just saying if im a random guy and pick up 8.66m im going to fucking dance too. Ive never had an RS trade go through that it wasnt confirmed via pm.

Nygma - July 24, 2014, 8:32 am

Without any screenshots or videos of the deal and how the trade is done by dropping its hard to find any evidence against either user as to who is scamming or if a mistake has been made.

Good luck to both at getting this resolved.

You're right, which is why I only stated my opinion. I'm neutral because you have evidence and Elvy had his past (which I personally have dealt with him before).

I don't think he scammed you, but that maybe something else is going on here, whether it be a miscommunication or wrongful assumption, and/or that he did drop the gold and never informed you so you never picked it up, ect.

I don't think he scammed you, but that maybe something else is going on here, whether it be a miscommunication or wrongful assumption, and/or that he did drop the gold and never informed you so you never picked it up, ect.

He refused to PM me. I have proof of me pming him 1 minute after his last pm to me. Then 5 mins later. and then 45 mins later. He just 100% refused to PM me

It would have been extremely easy and good proof if he screenshot my character either standing near him or picking up the gold. My user name is Tran Quil and i told him that. He could easily screenshot him next to me and crop his name out. You guys act like him providing proof of ME BEING THERE will put him at risk.

He pm'd me saying meet world 306. I showed up and he wasn't there. I pm'd him 5 mins later. Then 45 mins later. That seems like perfectly fine. And you don't ignore anyone that just gave you 26$ idc if they are annoying you.

Probably because you wouldn't know how to deal with it. If a client sends you 8 PMs it means something is up, you wouldn't answer? Means you're a bad businessman to leave a client like that.

You never paid anyone anything. You're obviously a duplicate account of the OP or his friend. If I did then post evidence, don't make false claims.

(Jul 24, 2014 11:05 AM)mashuginaH Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Still no response via pm from him. I think i lost my 26$...

Why would I respond to you via pm now that you're trying to extort me and using a false scam report as your weapon for doing so?

(Jul 24, 2014 05:45 AM)Aceman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've known Elvy666 for several years and he wouldn't scam somebody for $26 of Runescape gold. He can get that in one kill at mage bank and is known to be a good brid, it's not worth his time when he could just go pk for some more money. I honestly know a good 50+ people who have bought RSGP off of him and not a single one has ever had any problems.

Thank you for this. I've sold gold to thousands of people before and have never had a problem.

(Jul 24, 2014 08:18 AM)Proxseas Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He doesn't trade. He drops the money. Less evidence for jagex.

Exactly. Because drop trades are not logged but everyone knows trades are logged.

(Jul 24, 2014 08:22 AM)Phobix Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If this is the real Elvy666 that I remember (98% sure), I'm not surprised he went the drop trade route. Elvy is a name everybody knows inside and outside of RS, he's a huge RWter. He also has a long history of other things. Drop trading is his way of remaining safe, and seeing the dance emote part goes along with the idea of not getting flagged by Jagex.

It makes sense. You can't target him on this aspect, if OP knew this was the plan then there isn't much to say more on this part.

I don't know you OP but Elvy loses time by having to put up with bad trades. Time he can invest into his other trades. 26$ is pennies to him, which leads me to believe he wouldn't scam you.

Hope you too can resolve this. Neutral standpoint.
Thanks for the positive reply!

Yes I'm the real elvy. I've sold to plenty of people that you knew that where in phtp, etc

And you're right, this is causing more time for me to reply to these statements that I could be doing using to make well more than 8.6m.. lol

I've spent easily well over an hour replying to 5 pages of of false statements by the OP (And will spend several more hours replying to these statements), and anyone that knows of me and my reputation knows that I make far more than 8.6m in that amount of time.

Also, here is a link to some vouches on a previous gold sale thread, a while back though, has vouches on it. Picture on it was of several bill but the image has been removed as thread is old:
<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=1794766>

Here is another sales thread of a product I had sold on HF. Includes 20+ vouches in my OP, and probably 40 more through out the thread: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=369324>

PS: Anyone that knows of me via rs, even from my youtube videos, knows that I make a living off of Runescape, and have made hundreds of bills through out the years, and even have 30b bank videos up from the past. 8.6m is chump change, I wouldn't waste my time or ruining my gold sale rep for $26

Then just fucking give me my gold.Or my BTC. If you drop gold to someone you did not drop it to my character Tran Quil. I was going to vid the whole exchange. You never showed up.

EDIT: Your pictures are fro 2011. That doesnt prove anything. A real business man takes screenshots or video. I know because i was a supplier on powerbot.

Fredo Santana - July 25, 2014, 8:58 am

Elvy you are a reputable person BUT he sent you many pms which you had to see and just ignored if he couldn't find you how the hell was it him who picked up the gold? It's just looks bad on you cause you didn't reply to the pms at all he was asking where in the world to meet if he didn't know how could he possibly receive the gold? He has pm proof and times on his pms are all lining up from what i saw you never stated your in game name so how could he find you (unless i missed it) So honestly this seems like more your fault it may have been a mistake but nevertheless he deserves at least the gold. You seem to never bring up how you never replied to his pms either like if someone pmed me 8 times in such a short period especially since you never replied where to meet in the world so that's not adding up maybe you asked if the guy in-game was him and the guy said yes doesn't mean that was him. It could have been an honest mistake on your part but it was YOUR mistake.

Lol at anyone who does RuneScape related deals with James. He's been scamming people since 2009, i've personally seen him scam multiple people back when he was on Sythe scamming people for RSBots.net auth codes and running around with a booter before it was cool to own one. Just do a Google search for "elvy666 runescape" this guy is one of the biggest scum in the history of the internet.

EDIT: Funny how he's scamming to gear up for his clan Violent Resolution, dude is like 25 years old and he can't resist scamming for RuneScape.

There comes a point in time when you realize everyone has an ego. This kid's is so huge that he couldn't resist pounding on his keyboard keys to defend what he perceives to be his virtual integrity, all while forgetting where he is doing it, his own scam report, which he did not have any intention of replying in.
