Thread: What would you do if "The Purge" was a real thing?

Spyro The Dragon - July 25, 2014, 12:18 am

Imagine it. All crime being legal for 12 hours. What would you do?

I'm interested in hearing what some of you have to say!

What I'd do:

I'd plan weeks ahead. I'd gather as many supplies as possible, and I'd try and scope out a great hiding place where no one would think of looking. Before the purge started, I'd be in my hiding spot, where I would remain for 12 hours. I'd be sitting on my ass, eating doritos and drinking mountain dew, whilst stroking a Spas-12 in case some motherfucker tried to kill me.

Yeah, I'm a pussy, I'm not going outside lol.

Aquilaane - July 25, 2014, 12:18 am

Leave the country for the day. Wouldn't get involve in any of that crap.

OR go drifting and have some street fun. Not in a city. Away from people.

QoL?? - July 25, 2014, 12:20 am

I'd probably go out and try to kill people who I don't like if this was a long time tradition like it is in the movie. However, if it was just started out of the blue next month, I would probably cower under my bed.

Trisomy 21 - July 25, 2014, 12:21 am

Buy a mask, go outside, hopefully nobody fucks with me because I have a gun, at 11:59 I ring somebody's doorbell and run away.

haha, made me smile.

Deany - July 25, 2014, 12:21 am

Um, hide my ass off so I don't die? Pretty obvious.

Antigen - July 25, 2014, 12:22 am

1. I don't want to kill anybody.

2. Instead of setting up high security to protect myself, I'll just to a deserted place like a forest.

Anonymity is the best security.

I would go on a jaywalking rampage:)

QuadDamage - July 25, 2014, 12:41 am

It already is happening. Particularly with the fed bank being installed in the US. Only difference is, the violence is softkill and somewhat stealth. And the victims(average people) volunteer and submit to tyrannical manipulation without a clue, or with little protest to the significance of their own enslavement and mistreatment. The Purge movie series are satire in my view. And to many others as well who have a better clue to the nature of the globalized system much of us live under.

A CPS court for example is just a corporation. But people rationalize with their ego instead of the law, and children get placed about where most of the time they had no good reason for being. No tears do general public shed though.. We just sit and shrug our shoulders out of not understanding or being qualified to address an issue since it is not directly in our faces.

Going into public areas and watching people, I have a hard time not seeing them carry on with their lives as if it weren't the purge movies in real life. But I guess I'm a conspiracy nut and paranoid. Shame on me for even half being concerned.

Take a few unbiased history lessons to the best of your ability, then come back and re-watch the Purge movies.

Its amazing stuff.

Even Aqua Teen Hunger Force on adult swim and Sponge Bob Square Pants contain innuendo surrounding these concepts. Of course obviously being overlooked by 95% of the viewers. It's a whole new level of understanding once you recognize your place on this planet ship. OR, you can mindlessly watch and have your senses and egos pleased. Then people will counteract an opinion such as mine and others and reply with something silly like "everyone takes their own meaning from things". That is literally circus talk. Lol right.

Try telling that to the majority of people who get screwed in courts because they simply admitted to being a "Person" when in fact they are not, unless they make the claim. And most people do because everyone in the world tells them they are a "Person" which is highly precise legal terminology with thousands of implications that require you to rack your head for years in order to more fully comprehend.

Anyway, if you girls want to think in black and white, suit yourself. Enjoy the entertainments you watch, but they become a whole lot more enjoyable when you fully grasp them and their many dualities.

I would go on top of a roof, with a AS50 sniper rifle stocked with ammunition food water medical kit and a parachute for a yolo escape.

I would boobytrap the door/hatch to get onto the roof with some type of explosive.

I would watch over innocent people and kill those who are dysfunctional, so you little fuckers watch out.

I'd grab my family and go somewhere far far far away in the middle of nowhere. That, or go on vacation to a different country for a week every year.

If I did decide to participate in the purge, I'd just snipe people from a very safe location.

If you gun down those who harmed you with no repercussion then you're now in the exact situation as everyone you've killed. Doesn't better society, nor make you better then them, since everyone has family and loved ones... their family would then just kill you for killing someone else... then they would die. It's how almost all wars start, with casualties on both sides.

I highly agree that's why it's not logical I am just saying in a world it would be a good and it would be bad. I just think there is always a possibility that our government would run into problems and maybe something similar to the purge would take action. But, that's a extremely low chance but all in all I think it's still possible.

So far through history, it is not possible for our own government to condone mass killing for no reason. It is more likely we would be conquered or in a war and forced to fight each other, however even that is an extremely small chance of happening... that you might as well not consider it.

Now I am in the mood for the purge...wish there was a way to get a good quality version of the purge 2.

(Jul 28, 2014 08:18 PM)nevieth Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If this "Purge" lasted for over a year, I may attempt to build a small community where we don't allow crime, maybe recreate a working established government... that or just cap myself, one of those. >.>

That community would never survive in the real purge. You would have people from all over coming to ruin what you're trying to build, simply because they can. You would also have mass problems throughout the community because simply you can't control them.

Lines - July 29, 2014, 12:42 pm

If the Purge was real, I suppose it'd be alot similar to GTA.

People just shooting eachother for no reason, robbing banks, and stores, and stealing cars.

So, I would have to do what I do on GTA.. Find me a Tank, and fuck shit up.

Not entirely, in fact that is how all governments and societies are founded... through the intention of a small community. We would only allow trusted citizens who haven't committed a serious crime, and then arm ourselves to protect our families.

We would then spread out slowly, and grow out with laws and democracy.

It seems difficult, however all communities and laws were started from nothing, and came from something like this.

Except you always end up dying from a tank, due to committing enough crime where the police (other criminals in this case) would all target you.
