Thread: Reputation Page Usertitle

Cherry Pop - July 27, 2014, 10:50 am

On the reputation page of a user, I've noticed that it displays the user title no matter if the user is closed, banned or exiled. It displays the 'banned account' on posts, profile and everything else, so I don't see why it shouldn't display on the reputation page. Not sure if it's a bug either.

(Jul 27, 2014 12:21 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you mean? You can see if the member is closed/banned on the reputation page. Their names shows up as black (banned) and closed (grey). Their usertitles are not corresponding to the usertitle on their profile page (Banned/Exiled or whatever)

For those who don't fully understand what he is saying, the usertitle shows the default one on a banned user's reputation page. You can see the difference in user titles between the two pages that are found below.

Honestly, there are bigger things to worry about than this, but I'll keep this open so that Omni can see this and possibly make a fix in his free time.

It was just a heads up for Omni, incase he wanted to fix that.

why does this even matter?

not a very useful suggestion imo

I don't think this will be very beneficial to HF, my opinion though.

It was just to report it, I know it isn't that important at all but it is an error.

Everyone who is saying this isnt even a big fix... well think about it like this.

Without SMALL bugfixes like this, how can HackForums become the perfect MyBB Forum?

With SMALL fixes like this.

Nice spot OP.
