I am not sure what I did but tabs are constantly opening up with ads and my ad blockers don't even stop it. There are ton's of things that are green and underlined and when I hover over them they give me ads.

I have an antivirus and it removed a lot of stuff but it's still happening, any ideas?

GrandTheftAutoIV - July 27, 2014, 8:36 pm

What have you downloaded recently? Can you go into your programs and files folder thing and screenshot what's in there?

Borzoï - July 27, 2014, 8:40 pm

I had the same thing, download an adware remover. And an extension cleaner.

I deleted all my recent downloads to try and fix the problem.

Have you pirated anything recently?

Download adwcleaner and run it.

It will automatically restart your computer after it is done cleaning.

Post the log here.

Once you have done what roku asks, PM your team viewer ID so I can declare you clean.

If you're using chrome then you might have an extension enabled that makes those ads popup.

I have disabled those and it is still happening.

I used to have the same problem with an extention, I would disable it and it would still pop up ads and I re-installed Google Chrome and it went away. You can try doing the same and hope that fixes it.

'Cynical - July 27, 2014, 9:46 pm

Google Chrome may have been overwritten. As the user above said, you could try to reinstall it. I recommend you do a full malware scan with Malware Anti-Bytes.

'Ryan - July 27, 2014, 10:03 pm

Re-installed google but it didn't fix a thing.

Actually I just went ahead and cleared all my data and stuff for the past 24 hours on chrome and that fixed it. Thank you to all who have helped me. :)

Be sure to do a full scan with malwarebytes.

I recommend this just to make sure you are all good.

A threat scan would be better.

A Full Scan isn't needed in Malwarebytes, a Threat Scan takes care of 99% of the locations where malware commonly hides.

OP, next time you have the same issue, I suggest you to do the following :Go in your installed programs list, and uninstall programs that you don't recognize or don't recall installing (leave alone every computer manufacturer's software, Microsoft programs, etc.);

Download and run Junkware Removal Tool;

Once JRT is done, download and run AdwCleaner. You have to click on Scan, and then Delete after. It will ask for a restart, do it;

Go in your browser's setting and click on "Reset Settings";

This takes care of 90% of the Adwares, Browser Hijackers, PUPs and Junkwares on a computer. If you want to do more, run a Threat Scan with Malwarebytes right after JRT and use TFC (Temp File Cleaner) at the end completely.

Try to scan with Hitman Pro. It detected the malware which my Kaspersky and Mbam failed to detect. ?

A better option would be to take step by step help of a good white hat helper here.

A better thing to do for you too would be to read all the posts before posting in a thread, so you would see that this issue has been solved already ?
