Started using it, it looks awesome but guys, we need more active members, we can win a lot so fast, thank you for this program !

OBliViON - August 1, 2014, 6:19 pm

Update

I added some test links in the beginning to see how it would go. And since I released it, I already got 25 clicks on adf.ly so far.

Imagine if there were alot more users guys. Help yourselves out by promoting it! The more users, the more money there is to make.

I'll make a How To/Information video tomorrow.

Register a new account.

Login.

Click on adfly or youtube at the top (which one you want to earn points for)

Click the play button at the bottom.

Sit back and let the program handle the links, while you get points.

Then, add your own links, and repeat.

It's not a bot dude. And my program doesn't support shortest.

I can't really give a number, that depends on how many links you have in the program, and how many active users there are.

UPDATE:

I just released an update on xChanger. It should of fixed:

- Point problem. Not being able to add a link, even though you have enough points
- Error when surfing youtube links

To get the update, either manually download the new version from the site -

Or re-open the program, and it should auto-download it for you.

Did you read it? I have to work on the adfly algorithm, since a few accounts got banned, and I don't want anyone using the program right now. Since there may be other accounts that could get banned.

That, and other people believe my program isn't safe, which is not true.

The clicks don't show up instantly on adf.ly brother.

It takes time for their stats to update. That being said, sometimes the clicks don't go through and aren't counted by adf.ly either.

Take the time to read the help page/watch the how to use video guys - <http://www.thexchanger.net/help.html>

You don't surf your own links.

People surf your links when they want to get credits for their own. Which is what I mean by "everything's automatic".

And it takes time for adf.ly to update their stats. Sometimes clicks dont go through either.

Any link that doesn't have popups or things that are annoying and will screw up the program from trying to click the links.

Can the link type be interstitial? Or does it have to be the banner kind?

Has to be the kind that displays the skip button brother.

But if its the banner kind, I'm sure adfly might still count the views. But the clicks wont register on the program, and your link will basically be stuck, and might screw something up (Not sure, I'll have to look into that).

Those are the youtube videos comming from the program/server.

The server should have muted itself in order to stop that, so it doesn't bother any users. Or its comming from the program when you surf youtube links.

Just go to the Volume Mixer on your computer, and mute the server (if its not muted already), and mute the program when you're surfing youtube links.

Its probably due to the obfuscation I used on my program.

Virus total showed it as detected by 3/53, but its safe and theres nothing wrong with it. I've never had anyone tell me that popped up on win8 before the latest update. It might be because of the new code I added, that clears out IE's browsing data when the captcha shows on adfly from too many clicks, not sure.

But either way, my program is safe and harmless my dude.

I think the reason why you, and others haven't been getting clicks is because of the captcha that keeps showing up when users are surfing adfly links.

I added a cooldown of 30min, but that doesn't seem to work. So I'll need to have users fill in the captcha when surfing, or get some kinda auto-captcha solving api/function implemented in the program bilal78634 - August 19, 2014, 8:40 pm

Clicks are coming in slowly due to adfly's captcha that pops up.

I have my program set to wait 30min before continuing to click links if a captcha does show up.

I think I may just have to bring up the captcha in a small window, and have it give users 20 points for each captcha they fill in. Because the cooldown method isn't working.

Thats what I'm saying. The captcha that pops up causes people to get low clicks, that and the cooldown (30min) doesnt even work most of the time, so people probably just close out. Or it keeps showing and doesnt really do anything.

So I may just have users manually do captchas when they show up for extra points.

Is it really very useful ? And i didnt come along with adfly , Used to offer free service to help other with their monetizing here, often there was the task to klick this adf.ly ads, were i saw that you get $5 for 10.000 clicks ?

Is this profitable ? And youll get it fast with for example this program ?

Its actually $9.00 for each 1000 UNIQUE USA Clicks - <http://adf.ly/rates>

And you won't get clicks on your adfly links fast with my program at all, and you could and probably would end up banned if you used only my program to get clicks and not a legit traffic source.

In all honesty I'm thinking of disabling the adfly feature on my program. But I won't do that unless I'm forced to do it. I'll keep working on it to try and make it safer to use, but really more people just need to use the program everyday.

Rather have everyone use the YouTube feature instead, its better than adfly imo.

Big Update Comming Soon

I've been working my ass off for the past week now lol.
Trying to get A LOT of things done, edited, changed around, etc.

Reason is, I'll be doing a referrals contest soon, with a prize of $35 or $50 via paypal.
But I noticed there was quite a few things that had to be looked into on xChanger, so thats what I've been doing.

Got so busy, that I forgot to post a reply and let everyone know, and I'm sorry for that.

But by next week everything will be working again! :)
Until then guys.

I'm working on a new version, and the changes I'm making to the algorithms, wont be compatible with the latest released version, so I made it so users can't login to their accounts for the time being. This should only last 2 days max, then I'll release the update.

Its probably due to the pages that adfly loads up.

You know, the ads that people decide to show, and the pages that people decide to link with adfly.

Most of the ads have crap that tries to download, or just uses up a bunch of resources and what not.

Unfortunately, I can't stop that. Sorry.

Also, I'll be releasing a new update in the next few days. I changed the design of the program. And

Thank you for the great program, It's pretty self explanatory on how it is used. For those of you that don't know:

Step 1: Go to the Xchanger website, proceed to download the Xchanger client. Next run the program and click register

Step 2; Go check your email for an activation confirmation

Step 3: Login to the Xchanger client, you will be brought to a little control window. Click the little adfly icon (Next to the Youtube Tab, and settings.

Step 4: It will automatically start viewing Adfly links without you even knowing, your mouse may move a little bit as well.

Step 5: You see a little Bee icon, next to the Youtube one, and it should say a certain number because this is the amounts of points you have generated from viewing other peoples adfly.

Step 6: Click 'Add New Link'

Step 7: Enter any title, under that insert your adfly link. (Tick the little box that says all countries to maximize clicks)

Step 8: Select how many clicks you would like (REMEMBER: It tells you how many points you have as I stated earlier, in turn this is how many clicks you are allowed for your own link. Ex; Your points are 10, you will approximately get 2 clicks until you have earned more points.

Step 9: Click add link (Wait a few minutes and you should get a message saying it has been successful.

Step 10: Repeat steps 3 & 4

It's an exchanging program, what did you expect?

Well I did some adfly pressing I didn't receive any "coins/cash" I don't know if it's slow or what

??? - November 19, 2014, 7:31 pm

I downloaded this and I'm going to start posting this around. By the way, does this bot click "skip ad"? I was wondering this because I want to know if the website after will get any views.

EDIT: For the crashing issue, it happens often for me. You should ask the developer for hitleap how they did it because their viewer actually shuts off the site if it uses too much resources.

First off, its not a bot.

Secondly, why wouldn't it click the skip button? I wouldn't program something like this for adfly if it didn't.

I'll look into that. Thanks

O..M..G... If people started to know that this program existed, EVERYONE WILL BE PAYED SO MUCH WHEN WE JUST RUN THE PROGRAM AND AUTO EXCHANGE LINKS!! I will start to advertize your program. Please tell me that its auto run.

Can you please make an auto click into the program? and can you also please make the links fair instead of buy a promotion to get clicks. Instead, just have a donate button for yourself. I would gladly donate 5 bucks to you if this program is golden.

Please put in proper advertize into this. I think this program is gonna be huge. You certainly had my attention from 0 to 1000. Proper advertizing = more users, More users with "auto clicking" others links, and same to them means more $$$$$$. We just broke the system LOL. Keep up the great work!

Lol, jeez xD

Theres settings where you can have it auto-run, auto-login in, and auto-start surfing links. You can also have it periodically check for new links to surf as well. If it finds new links, it'll start surfing.

You don't need to buy a promotion to get clicks either. I decided I'll work on premium shit later in the next updates, while I work on the more important things since the program is down and I want it back up asap.

I've been the main one advertising like crazy since I first released it. I bought adverts and what not on many sites, but I don't have a lot to spend, which is why I have a referrals option so users can gain more members themselves.

I'm trying to make things more and more safe for users, so that they can use this program with little to risk of thier adfly accounts being deleted.

But seriously, thanks sooo much for the reply and suggestions, means a lot to me! ?

(This is a long post, Sorry!?)

No prob! I see you've put so much into this program with all it's glory. What do you exactly mean by new link? and how does this program exactly work? I though its all interconnected. Here are some of my ideas for this program (for adfly) ? Ex. if only two people were auto clicking with adfly, the only links that they would be able to auto click are each others, so we don't have inactive people's link to be clicked. If there are not enough people online/ or all the online peoples links are used, what you can do is have the offline people's links show and be clicked like only up to 100 times (or another preferred low number). So when you log off, and others will log on, your link will show up to others as much as they owe you ? (Once you have the amount viewed on your links, then your "status of link" will become inactive). If we have 100,000 people using this at the same time, the clicks would go up to 100,000 slowly. In this case, have all the clicks of "# of Viewed others links" " # of Your links viewed" "URL of links you've viewed (so you don't get repeated links)" and "(Count down if you go offline before) 1.Links people owe you, 2. # of your links viewed before status is inactive (100)). record these for each user. Another thing is have the option to put a lot of adfly links. Its very important for now that the community is not big enough, because if the link have been clicked by one person, they don't get it again, instead, they get another link, but still by the same person. So say right now there are 1k active members, there will be 1k views on each of adfly links, which will increase profit, no matter how low the number of people there are. (need to keep making new adfly links for now xD). One more thing: Make sure that the program detects if an adfly link is an interstitial Advertisement or Framed banner. If you're coding this in java, I would gladly like to offer to help you code it. I'm experienced with java coding. Sorry for the long post. Here are all my ideas for adfly and hopefully there will be changes for the better. I will post helpful ideas for youtube later if you like. Keep the good work up! ?

Its all good man! No problem at all, I like long replies. Means users put a lot of thought into suggestions and replies, which tells me that they appreciate what I'm doing :)

Let me explain a bit by new links, and how the program works. You're right it is interconnected. Its an exchanging program, you scratch my back, I scratch yours.
In this case, if you surf and click on someone's link, you'll get points, and in return you spend those points by adding your own links. People click your links, they get points, and the process repeats. Simple.

When I mean new link, I mean the program grabs links from the database, and the program takes cares of the rest, updating things as it goes along completing links.

For adfly though, you only surf 3 links from the same user, in the same day. So lets say someone had 5 links, you would only receive 3 links to surf, and after you finish 3, you dont get anymore links from that user until the next day.

Except for the youtube feature. When it comes to views, you only view the same link once everyday.

So as you can see, you'll get clicks and views from multiple Ip's.

With your suggestion about people surfing the links of online users, I dont think I'll be able to implement that, EXACTLY how you thought of it.

What IS good though, is the idea of only the links of recently active users (say people who've been online in the past week), being surfed. And the people who were offline for a while dont get clicks, unless they log in and use the program.

Though, if theres not too many active users, which there arent right now, that could be problematic with not enough links being return to surf on the program. So, once things fire up, maybe I can implement that feature in, to keep people active.

After a link runs out of points though, its removed from the database, so users would have to re-add thier link once its finished.

It be cool to see the number of links you views, and the number of links other people viewed, that is nice. I'm actually working on a page to display certain stats like that. The only thing im against, is seeing the urls you've viewed.

The program handles that itself, so you dont get repeated links. I cant display the urls being surfed, or the links that already were surfed due to the fact that it would pose a risk to peoples accounts being deleted on adfly.

Lol im trying to lower that risk, not increase it brother. I kinda got the most of that idea, but it seemed a bit confusing.

You're right about the multiple links thing. I'll consider adding that as option to add multiple links later on.

The program does detect interstitial Advertisement or Framed banners for adfly. It'll skip the link, and report an error on it. If theres 5 errors on the link, its removed, credits are given back to the user, and they get a message on the system.

Once again thanks sooo much for the ideas :)

That's cool!

but i think you should keep and edit the part where there is a Framed banners detected instead of calling the link an error, because instead of waiting 5 seconds, its instant and a person would probably make more money with Framed banners than interstitial Advertisement if given the same amount of time to surf

(this would be useful in the future when there are alot of users using the program, but for now, we'll use interstitial Advertisement to get more $ with limited users) .

When i said record the links you have viewed, i mean let it be within the system only, not with the user, to avoid repeating links, but looks like you have that taken care of :) . We don't want this program to be detected and us getting banned ?

Can I also know when your website/Program will be available? And in what language are you coding it in? Thanks! ?

Here's the power of this program (adfly option). If there are only 100,000 people using it (who are active), you will get $100+ in 5.8 days (assuming you have adfly in auto run and waiting 5 seconds before skipping any ads.). Adfly will pay you once every month. so, assuming you have the program in autorun for a month, You will get $517++ in your paypal. AND this is only for one link option.

OBliViON (acidol2) is willing to add more links options for the small amount of people there are currently. If you have 2 links and only 50k people, you will still make the same amount at the end of the month. (and so on). If you have X amount of adfly accounts, and run the program in X amount of VMware's with certain VPN's running (Must not be the same), You will multiply $517 by X as your paypal earnings. Everyone wins. But the real genius here is not me. Its OBliViON. Thank him for making this awesome money making sit back and relax program :D

Nah, I mean the overall earnings might not be as high as your calculating. When your trying to cheat the system, theres certain repercussions that you'll have to deal with later. So you'll probably be earning money, yea, but it wont be that much, and you might not get paid. All depends on certain factors. All in all, dont set your hops toooo high.

Im pretty sure they wouldn't care even if they found out because adfly is getting paid for every person that visits their website. So for every view that get, they pay us like 10% of their profit.

Duly noted.

I'm ALMOST done with everything that I wanna rush through and finish. Right now, I'm working on the kinks for the optional manual captcha solving feature for adfly.

If the captcha shows you can have the option of solving it, for extra points.

The number of points you get is determined by the number of referrals you have, divided by 2. You can get a max of 10 extra points whenever you solve a captcha.

Nice. Ive never seen captchas before on adfly. Can your program auto solve them? and Im going on a vacation for 2 weeks tomorrow. I just want to have it on auto run for 2 weeks straight xD (Edit: meant 10% not $)

No it can't. At least not yet.

I've considered adding an api for auto solving of captchas, but that cost money, and I don't have anymore extra funds to invest atm.

So if you chose to solve the captcha(s), it'll be manually.

That might have been when I first released it. It was known to have problems back then.

PM me a few links, and I'll test them on this newer version to see if they get clicks.

OBliviON - December 21, 2014, 11:05 pm

Just a heads up...

xChanger will be out in a few more days. Before or on Christmas like I said.

Just finishing up the last bit of coding, and a special new feature for youtube views :)

Eru Chitanda - December 22, 2014, 12:59 am

Definitely checking this out after the updates

SarcasmTax - December 24, 2014, 7:35 am

I absolutly love this! thanks! works like a charm

So legit! Thank you for your services and I can't wait for it to be updated today :~!

posting so i don't forget to come back lol, hope it wont be like hitleap n sites like that.. sucks a$$..

It says it will be open the 24th..

Im gonna be here waitting :)

Can't wait for this man. Thank you in advance!

Is it up now or still testing? I would love to test it out and provide feedback to optimize it xChanger is back up again!

Please let me know if any bugs or whatever happen!

Wow this looks cool using it now :) looks like a great program thanks for the share :) if this works (and im sure it will) ill be using it 24/7 happy Holiday's everyone :)

Captcha isn't working. I tried about 20 times and it says : Invalid captcha entered

Keep getting this error when running for more then 15 mins

Warning log is kinda big

Click on "Buddies" on the bottom right.

OR click edit profile, then click on the buddies tab.

What do you mean if you open it on another unit will the points go back to default? Are you talking about running the program twice but on different computers?

Explain to me what you mean when you open it and all the links are gone.

Go in the task manager, and see if xChanger.exe is still running.

For some reason it doesnt fully close sometimes.

And the only supported sites at this time are adfly and youtube.

goners - January 2, 2015, 6:20 pm

Thank you for this.

Trick for Adfly: There are 9 people on line if the 9 people would make 20 links add each link for 1 hit then we will receive 900 points each and we just keep adding from that we could all receive some good money.

Trick for Youtube: Make youtube account add a video a real video you made. Get points from Xchanger for youtube use the points and 3 days after views your video will be available for monetizing then just keep using points to hit video easy money.

Program is very much legit, but lacks a user base. If it had more users, the program has real potential.

goners - January 12, 2015, 2:00 pm

I leave this program on at all times I also check to see how many users are on periodically there are times that there are 8 people on it and the moment that the 9th person gets on that one person gets off so it goes back down to 8.

Everyone has to understand everyone is on different time zones you have to run this all day but still if people do run this all day we all get money.

I run this all day and I've burned 16 hit so far to 1 link earning me $0.1547
Not bad for running a simple program in you taskbar.

We just need more people please everyone get on this and refer people.

aliciousness - January 12, 2015, 2:38 pm

This is an extremely nice program. We just need to advertise it for more users.

goners - January 12, 2015, 10:41 pm

I have a banner on my bots for this program still no one trust adfly or adfocus ext.. they don't always pay but with the system that is setup it is real hits and you never look at your own link so there is no way to get banned but no one realizes it. Like the creator said it is NOT a bot it is an exchanger.

OBliviON - January 13, 2015, 1:07 am

Guys stop complaining about the low number of active users.

Theres over 1K users on xChanger right now. Fact is, we just need more active people. I get that.

But, if you guys would help advertise the program, instead of just using it and forgetting about, since theres a low number of people using it. We'd all have a better chance of making more money.

If everyone started advertising, there would be more active users.

Anyway, in the next few weeks, I'll be making an update, that'll hopefully make it so people stick, and keep using xChanger.

I've been busy working on something else, so give me time to finish that up. Then ill start working on the update.

I looked into the captcha, and everything works fine. But on your screenshot the captcha box looks disoriented. Can you send me a picture of the whole register window as it appears on your screen? Im concerned about how it looks for Windows 8 users. Given that Windows 8 has an ugly GUI it makes my program look ugly too. lol

I do my best to lower the risks of bans. Unlike bots you're gettin clicks from real people and not a bunch of proxies/fake traffic. That being said, most bots get you banned anyway because even though they click the skip button like xChanger, adfly can still detect fake clicks from most bots (Note: xChanger is not a bot). Which is something i found out in the past, and already patched. Theres a very low chance of being banned when using xChanger.

Because I've taken steps to avoid that.
No one's reported any banned accounts since I've released a few updates, months ago.
My only issue now is accuracy of the clicks being counted.
I haven't been working on xChanger lately due to some personal issues that I need to address first.

There's always room for improvement.
Like I said earlier, when I get more time I'll work on it.
This is nothing more than a side project I made out of boredom.

Voucher for this I have been using this for quite some time and I only select USA for my views in 40 views to adfly $0.41 and I redirect the click to adfocus $0.39 and youtube $0.37 this is not bad. That is with the little people that use it imagine if there were 1000's of users. Good thing is that they all don't have to be on at the same time just within the 24 hours of the day and click all links for the day of course not all links submitted will be hit the same day first come first serve.

So everyone get your friends on board and earn some good money for free.

Oblivion I understand this is a side project but if you do get time there are many more sites that you could add.

(Mar 25, 2015 02:31 AM)puntamara Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How can you guarantee that this won't get caught by Adf.ly? Sooner or later they will ban all the accounts that exchange clicks.

Adfly will never ban for this I have already shown them this and as long as no vps, proxies ect... are used you will never be banned due to the fact that they are receiving real hits from real people passing there click security with a real click and not iMacros. What this does for them is proves to there customers that members are really looking at there site but we are not and adfly knows this but be quiet don't tell none of our customers type thing. Got it good go tell everyone except adfly customers.

That is with the little people that use it imagine if there were 1000's of users. Good thing is that they all don't have to be on at the same time just within the 24 hours of the day and click all links for the day of course not all links submitted will be hit the same day first come first serve.

So everyone get your friends on board and earn some good money for free.

Oblivion I understand this is a side project but if you do get time there are many more sites that you could add.

Adfly will never ban for this I have already shown them this and as long as no vps, proxies ect... are used you will never be banned due to the fact that they are receiving real hits from real people passing there click security with a real click and not iMacros. What this does for them is proves to there customers that members are really looking at there site but we are not and adfly knows this but be quiet don't tell none of our customers type thing. Got it good go tell everyone except adfly customers.

Thanks for the vouch my dude.

Before I add any other sites though, I'd rather make sure I got everything sorted out with the 2 that xChanger supports atm.
