Thread: Scammed by "elvy666" UID 117440. \$33 BTC.

lcYSeptember - August 1, 2014, 6:32 pm

I recently attempted to purchase access to this user's IRC botnet, which was being sold in the marketplace in this thread:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4371548>

I asked if we could talk over Skype or XMPP, so we could make the deal quicker, however he insisted on talking over IRC.

I don't have any screenshots of the actual conversation through IRC, sadly. But I do have another member who was also scammed, who can vouch for me, as I can do the same for him.

Here's an image of the conversation through PM between the scammer and the other member who was scammed:

He was saying the same thing to me, that the "DNS would take a while to update, therefore we couldn't connect to it yet."

And here's the transaction details on blockchain:

I'm sorry I don't see what's wrong here. Has he not given you access to the servers yet or..?

What were you "scammed"?

He gave me a dead link to connect to the URL claiming that the "DNS would take a while to update."

It's been several hours and I've yet to successfully connect to it.

The other member has yet to access it either, and he bought it yesterday.

xflat - August 1, 2014, 7:01 pm

I am the other buyer and I am giving him 8 hours before I make a scam report.

L?mon - August 1, 2014, 7:46 pm

I am another buyer of this as well and have not been able to connect with the info he gave me as well. Will keep you guys updated.

Sad to hear this guy's got someone else. :/

Wish the best of luck to you.

It would only be sold to one person (Elvy told me via Skype), don't throw accusations without backing shit up.

Which completely explains the fact that xflat might open a scam report, since he said he also bought it.

Alright, but if someone had a bad experience, they would perhaps like to back their accusations up, instead of just looking like they jumped on the bandwagon in order to make the seller appear as a bad seller.

Just like saying "Scammer" in reputation, without a link to a scam report. I'm just speaking from experience, but hey, I've seen this bandwagon thing go on for so long.

Of course, you're completely right. If xflat has something to say, then he must back it up with proper proof. We shall see then. I'm not saying elvy666 is a scammer or anything, I will await his answer to this thread.

That's odd that he would scam for such a low amount. I'll get on teamspeak and make him aware of this thread in hopes that it will be resolved.

Cainam - August 2, 2014, 9:44 am

Elvy doesn't give a shit. He scammed me for 26$. Aceman you know that. Stop trying to back this fucker up.

Lately I've seen a lot of scam reports by Ub3ers I think these upgrades should really be limited because it seems the staff gives them out like candy. Idk that's just one man's opinion. Glw scam report

P.S he did look sketchy I saw a report on him a few days ago that he scammed on RS for gold, not sure if it was resolved

Anybody can scam, ub3r or not. Don't group us together like that, and Omni personally checks each account that applies for ub3r before they can buy it.

So, no.

Fredo Santana - August 15, 2014, 10:18 pm

The scammer got me to smh <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4397921> its okay though

Bro? - August 15, 2014, 11:49 pm

Wow. 4 reports in like the past 2 weeks that must be a new record

420 Blaze It - August 16, 2014, 12:47 am

He has many scam reports on him now, GL resolving this still.

IcYSeptember - August 27, 2014, 9:14 am

I know this thread is a bit old, but I thought I'd just post a few updates.

This user is on a large scamming spree...such a small amount adds up when you scam tons of people.
