Thread: Stresser Hiring Staff: Coders, Support, Server Management

ItsFluffy - August 9, 2014, 2:23 am

I am looking to hire people for various positions. Some positions will be paid and some will not. The ones that aren't being paid financially can absolutely earn free logins to the product.

Some of the things I'm looking for:

-A quality coder [no longer needed]

--Someone who has experience either with website development and/or previous work on stresser sources. I have ideas for a custom source which will entail quite a bit of work but will be unlike anything else ever released and I need someone who has the experience with website development to be able to put everything together. If this person is interested in being full admin partner then I welcome it.

-Support Staff [Searching again, apply now]

--These positions already have an outline of what your job will entail. Anyone with professionalism and knowledge of the product already (as in worked with me or had more than one login purchased previously) is welcome to apply. Support staff may earn 'rewards' for the degree of quality of work they put in. Some support will answer tickets, thread and live chat while others will simply do thread and live chat based on experience and level of trust.

---Support staff will be hired in the many. Everyone will begin with live chat support. Upgraded members will be assisting with thread posts/support and advertisement on other thread requests. Non-upgraded will be limited to live chat and around the forum advertisements. Upgraded members, pending performance, have the opportunity to take part in ticket support as well. Everyone will undergo live chat training and adhere to ApocalypseServices professionalism.

-Backend support [no longer needed]

--Looking for someone who knows about the various attack methods, in particular Layer 7 and is willing to work daily to maintain servers and lists. This job isn't necessarily complicated but requires a bit of previous knowledge and will require time. This position has the potential to gain Mod or Admin status.

---The person(s) applying for this position will need to have the proper scripts (attack scripts, scanners) and preferably servers they can maintain their scans for to constantly update the lists. This position may be entitled to compensation if they fill their job appropriately and may also take part in support if they choose.

Feel free to post on thread with your replies.

If you'd like to pm me I prefer you to post here.

Please list your experience and why you'd like to be a part of this.

Thanks

Just would like to note - we are seeking especially live chat staff that can remain active throughout the day, whether they install the app on their phone or use the program on the computer, active & experienced staff is a good way to get started. Thanks!

Would you like to be Support Staff?

I will have you review a document I made but will be updating in a day or two.

And the main marketing currently is a requirement for posting across HF so if that's ok with you

@Rayzah, thanks man, once I find a coder for a new source, everyone is going to be dumbfounded by the things I incorporate

I don't personally have previous works. I have ideas of what I'd want to setup and how I'd want things to be as for the features and look of the site but I don't have prior work. I have a source someone could work from if they didn't want to work from scratch but it'd need a lot of changing so i don't know what's easier

First, he doesn't know the smallest thing about coding (Copy + Pasting is not coding kid)

Second, the guy is literally challenged. He tried to exchange me $2,000 that was fraudulent money and when his shit got closed, he didn't know why.

I'm interested in being a Live Chat support agent, but I have only one question. Is this a paid position, or do we just get some on-site stuff?

ItsFluffy - October 26, 2014, 9:10 pm

right now it is not paid

as the service grows again as it was before then the top performers begin earning commission on sales they pull in directly in the meantime, i allow for those who prove themselves to be loyal and not just on the support staff for a week to get a week login earn free memberships which is entailed in the support staff documents

Zettabit - October 26, 2014, 9:22 pm

Well, if the position ever becomes paid let me know. I'm not interested in a position that doesn't pay.

ItsFluffy - October 26, 2014, 9:30 pm

if it becomes paid it will be advertised as such on the front page of thread but regardless no one will be paid from the get go so i won't pay people to join in for a weeks pay and leave

I would like to apply for the support staff position because I have experience related to stressers (enough to tell them what the methods do etc) and if they have serious problems wich I cant resolve I will always ask the higher rank staffs for help.

I speak 3 language's so that might be handy aswell (Turkish, Dutch and English!)

The time I will probably spend is like 3-6 hours a day due my school etc.

Why do I want to apply for this?

I am in need of some extra money and this job just seems perfect for me because I love to help out people and have great communication skills.

Kind regards,

Royal Bash

You do seem experienced and speaking multiple languages will help, feel free to pm keod with your interest

Unfortunately until the stresser grows to what it was with over 200 customers a month funds are short to paid every support staff at this moment
