Good choice imo. I bought windows 8 and downgraded back to 7. I feel that 8 just takes alot of customization away from the os. (Which included removing the classic/basic themes aswell, which pissed me off.)

Taiga - August 10, 2014, 11:43 pm was never really a fan of 8 to begin with, or the re-vamp of 8 aka 8.1.

anyone know what the next OS is going to be?

Do you know about Mojmir's build of bblean? Or are you using bblean 1.17.1 ?

There is no reason to. Windows 8 is just an all around better system. Don't like start menu? Uninstall all the apps and install classic shell for windows 7 start menu (pretty soon this will be fixed as well). You can use it to also restore explore to windows 7 version.

This is what I'm currently using on my laptop to take to and from university - lightweight and low on resource usage, which is nice for a crappy ultrabook that can't even play flash videos smoothly. It has also increased my battery life (4 hrs 14 mins left at 52%), so that will help a ton since there aren't many power plugs around the campus.

Yep, it's 8.1! - I have the small taskbar enabled under the properties as well so it takes up less space. I wouldn't know if it's a bad Idea tbh, but i'm pretty happy with it and would recommend that you look into it if you like the look.

Yeah I don't use icons much, I edited my post a bit. Having a few shortcuts like that is pretty useful to me because I have 4 HDDs so it's an easy way to open them. I don't even use the games/programs folders because I just hit the windows key and search for anything when I need it. I tried having them at the top, but it looks better this way imo

How come? Removing the taskbar might seem stupid or like complicating things, if that's what you meant, but all I have to do is hit the windows key to bring up the start menu, in which I can type whatever and press enter to launch a program, or just Windows+R.

Having it like this might delay launching a program by 0.5 seconds, but it's worth it for the satifying look imo.

I really like how you have your monitor placements vertically; like you can expand an application if your programming gets too long. (Like in those TV shows, the code goes all the way down. :3) btw, is it better vertically or horizontally?
